MILLIONS FOR OREGON.

River and Harbor Needs That Will Be Recognized.

WASHINGTON WILL GET A TRIFLE

Seattle, Spokane Falls and Tacoma to Have Fine Public Buildings.

PORTLAND WILL GET $400,000

The La Camas Bridge Bill Passed—Incredible Folly of the Senate in the Matter of Secret Sessions.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—[OREGONIAN office, corner Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania Avenue.]—Oregon has asked and now has before the house rivers and harbors committee bills for $3,000,000 of improvements along the coast and the various rivers. Mitchell's boat railway bill carries for more than $3,000,000 more. The latter will pass the senate, but is very likely to fail in the house. The entire river and harbor bill will call for about $23,000,000. Oregon cannot hope for and will not get more than $1,500,000 of that sum, and Hermann, a committee member, will probably decide where most of that amount will be used, and it will not be until for a boat railway at The Dalles. He believes the amount should be expended in improving the mouth of the Columbia, completing the Cascade locks and for streams and harbors that reach the seaboard. He says it is absolutely impossible to get any large special improvement bill through. All the members with small rivers and harbors will not allow other large appropriations until the whole comes in as a general bill, when they can force large interests to support their smaller bills and carry them through. The Columbia river improvement is regarded as one of the half dozen great measures before congress, but it does not have the support of fifteen large states, like the Sault and Great Lake improvements, consequently the bills must be scaled down even if recommended by the engineers. All the big improvement bills are easily worked through the senate, but it is known the house will not stand it. Oregon will get a good slice for improvements already begun, but for new improvements, like The Dalles, there is little hope.

The Washington state delegation has asked for about $5,000 000 for lake, river and harbor improvements. It is more than likely that the state will not get $50,000. Congress will not appropriate for improvements where government engineers have not made surveys and submitted estimates. Only three improvements have been surveyed in Washington, and estimates for these only ask for clearing out river channels and harbors, and call for small sums. Washington must begin at the first principle and secure appropriations for surveys at this session, and in the next congress it may be possible to secure an appropriation on the estimates made by the engineers. The fault has been with former delegates from the territory, who have asked for no surveys, and the department are made to consider the general character, designed to prove that it would be impossible ever to get conviction and the bill, and as to the civil suits provided for, he said few such events would ever be instituted, and not one would be successful. Reagan gave notice of an amendment which he intended to offer to the bill, being the bill offered by him in December last. The bill went over without action, and after an executive session the senate adjourned.

IN THE HOUSE.

Another West Virginia Democrat Ousted —Public Building Bills.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—In the house the contested election case of Atkinson vs. Pendleton was called up and the floor accorded the contestee, Pendleton. Cooper of Ohio followed. A vote was then taken on the minority resolution declaring Pendleton entitled to the seat, and it was defeated, 142 to 159, a strict party vote. The question then recurred on the majority resolution seating Atkinson. The democrats refrained from voting, the object being to have the contestant seated by less than a quorum, so that the question of the right of the speaker to count a quorum might be taken before the courts. The vote resulted yeas 152, nays none. The speaker counting a quorum. O'Ferrall of Virginia raised the point of no quorum, but the speaker ignored him. The newly-elected member appeared at the door of the house and took the oath of office.

Dockery, from the committee on rules, reported a resolution making a special order for March 4 and 5 of bills reported from the committee on public buildings and grounds; adopted.

The house then proceeded to consider of the whole consideration of the urgent deficiency bill, and after some discussion adjourned without action.

THE BEHRING SEA NEGOTIATIONS.

Compensation for Seizures—Russia's Rights—Tupper's Mission.

VICTORIA, Feb. 22.—[Special Telegram.]—Instructions have been received from Ottawa through the provincial government for Captain Warren to proceed immediately to Washington for the purpose of giving evidence in respect to the ten vessels seized in Behring sea, with a view to the owners being compensated by the United States government. Captain Warren left for Washington this morning. Considerable satisfaction was felt here at the receipt of the above news.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—In the commons to day Mitchell asked if the attention of the government had been called to the telegraph messages published that the Russ an government had directed the minister at Washington to take part in the negotiations relating to Behring sea and provide means for establishing a close season. If that was true the contention that Behring sea was closed was practically abandoned. Sir John Macdonald said it would not be in the interests of Canada to enter into a discussion. All he could say was that everything so far was going on as satisfactorily as Canada could wish.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—A London special says: British Minister Pauncefote holds divergent opinions from Lords Salisbury and Stanley. This is the reason that Tupper has been sent to Washington to aid in the Behring sea matter. It is rumored in high quarters that Pauncefote will be superseded soon.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Ferguson denied in the commons to day that the Behring sea question was settled. Negotiations are still proceeding.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 27.—Advices from Newfoundland state that the legislature of that province will not consent to the renewal of the modus vivendi regarding the issuing of licenses to American fishing vessels, on account of the bitter experience the province has had in enforcing the last act of the colony.

Coast Defense Monitors.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—An amendment was proposed by Senator McPherson to-day to the house bill to increase the naval establishment. It provides that instead of eight immense line-of-battle ships being built, there shall be constructed eight low freeboard coast and harbor defense vessels of the monitor type, having not more than eighteen feet draft, with twin screws and a sea speed of not less than seventeen knots. These vessels shall be armed with four guns of not less than 14 inch caliber, mounted within turrets, together with rapid firing guns and at least one 15 inch dynamite gun.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT CORVALLIS

Residence Near Albany Burned—Suicide on Hood's Canal—Why Nellie McDonald, of Walla Walla, Killed Herself.

SPOKANE FALLS, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—Rondall S. Webb, who lived near Joe Henry's mill on Hangman creek, was found frozen to death yesterday five miles north of this city on the direct road to the mill at the north side of Harry Miller's ranch. Deceased left town early in the evening of the 24th, very much under the influence of liquor. Whether he fell out of his sleigh or was tipped out or got out to walk is not known. He is said to have been accustomed to walk after tying up his lines to his sleigh, and it is believed that he did so this time, and in his condition he could not keep up with his team.

When found his faithful dog was watching over him and it was with great difficulty that those who went out for him could get him away from the dog, which was neither satisfied to let them have his master nor to come to town with him. Webb will be buried by the G. A. R. post. Deceased was married and has two girls, the oldest of whom is now about 9 years old. His wife, however, has been divorced and remarried, and is now living somewhere beyond Palouse City, and the girls are with her.

Ruined Sheepman Attempts Suicide.

PENDLETON, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—William King attempted suicide at Echo, in this county, Tuesday, by cutting his throat with a knife. He was prevented from carrying out his intention by bystanders, and the knife was removed. Afterward he tried to procure poison to end his existence, but was refused the drug and was finally persuaded by his friends to abandon the attempt of self murder. The reason assigned is that King, who is running sheep on shares for J. Barker, had lost a large number and had become despondent. Brooding over his losses finally caused a derangement of his troubles. He was severely gashed about the neck and throat, but his injuries are not considered dangerous.

It is expected that the Hotel Pendleton will be reopened about April 1.

The thermometer registered 18 degrees below zero this morning. It is warmer now.

Killed Herself to Escape Her Husband.

WALLA WALLA, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—The recent suicide of Nellie McDonald, whose rightful name is Mrs. Thomas Brown, her former maiden name being McDonald, is still a source of conjecture. It appears that since the Seething Falls fire, where she lost everything, she has been hiding from her husband, who has previously inflicted nameless outrages on her. Finding she was here, he came to this city and found himself into her presence at the theatre last night and demanded that she come again to live with him. This she refused and escaped from the ballroom. Again, on the night she committed the deed she met him on the street, when it is said he threatened her. Brown was here the day of her death, and has since disappeared. He is supposed to be at Spokane Falls.

The Kalama-Astoria Steamer Line.

ASTORIA, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—The Telephone pooling arrangement with the Union Pacific expires March 1, and it is expected here that important developments will soon be made regarding Northern Pacific negotiations for an opposition steamer line from here to Kalama. The steamer Joseph Kellogg has been talked of as a good boat for this service.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Oregon Pioneer and Historical Society to-day, resolutions were adopted that the fund collected for the erection of a monument to Dr. Marcus Whitman be transferred to the Whitman Historical Society, on condition that it be used to aid in the construction of a monument.

A Baby Burned to Death.

CORVALLIS, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—A 2-year-old child of Wilson Scott, living ten miles west of here, was burned to death this morning. The parents went out to the barn, leaving the child alone. Returning they found that her clothing had caught fire from a stove. Every garment was burned from her body. She died in two hours.

The Board of Trade holds a meeting this evening to appoint a committee to wait on C. P. Huntington during his visit next month, and urge upon him importance of immediate completion of the West Side road.

Residence Near Albany Burned.

ALBANY, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—The residence of Robert McElhiney, two miles west of this city, was burned last night while the family was absent. The entire contents were consumed; loss $1000, insurance $450.

For the purpose of improving the seed wheat of the Willamette valley a carload of Australian white wheat has been imported by grain dealers of Albany, which will be sold to farmers. Wheat dealers say Oregon farmers need a change of seed wheat to make grain harder, better for milling purposes and bring a better price.

News From Salem.

SALEM, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—The supreme court for the October term has adjourned, and reconvenes Monday in March term.

Governor Pennoyer to-day appointed notaries as follows: A. G. Harding, E. G. Rogers, C. B. Thompson, Astoria; F. C. Buckman, Portland, S. A. Jones, Brooks; N. C. Wilson, The Dalles, T. J. Black, Haines; B. B. Hamill, Drain.

British Bark Embleton Missing.

TACOMA, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—The British bark Embleton has not been heard from since she put in at Port Stanley, off Cape Horne, South America, about the first of last September. She had encountered a severe storm off the Southern Atlantic and was dismasted. She should have been here several weeks ago. Her agents, Balfour, Guthrie & Co., have received no intelligence from her since September. The ship Fifeshire left England two months after the Embleton and has been in Tacoma now two weeks.

The Union Pacific Blockade Open.

SPOKANE FALLS, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—The Union Pacific blockade between Tekoa and Latah is lifted. The train men arriving to-night say that in places the drifts in the cuts were forty feet deep. The snowplow failed to work in such places, and a force of 500 men were employed day and night. No trains were stuck in these drifts, as none were sent beyond Garfield. Both the Moscow and east bound trains left to-night on time.

Nineteen Below at La Grande.

LA GRANDE Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—The thermometer went down to within one-tenth of 19 below zero last night, being the coldest this winter. Farmers and stockmen report much suffering by stock, and the prospects for heavy loss are good if chile is not checked soon.

L. B. Penwick, a prominent real estate agent of Seattle, was married to Miss Bessie Murray, of this place, to-day. They leave to-night for their future home at Seattle.

Clarke County Offices Re-established

VANCOUVER, Wash., Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—The county treasurer's vault was opened this morning and its contents also, like those of the county auditor, were found entirely intact. The county commissioners held a special session this afternoon, a majority being present. They provided necessary office room, locating the county auditor in the rear of Matlock, Bone & Co.'s office, using that firm's large vault as a repository of records. A suite of rooms was secured in the second story of Judge Williams's block to accommodate the other county officials. The five prisoners are safely housed in the military prison at Vancouver barracks. Steps will immediately be taken to rebuild the courthouse, and the new plans will have to be of an imposing structure capable of being enlarged without destroying the architectural design.

Lieutenant E. H. Clark, of Company H, Washington National Guards, who met such a frightful death yesterday, was buried this afternoon with military honors. The funeral ceremonies were conducted from St. Luke's Episcopal church.

FICKLE LITTLE YUM-YUM.

Overtaken in Her Elopement, She Flees With Another Lover.

FRESNO, Cal., Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—K. Asano and Miss Uwahashi have been arrested here on a telegram from San Francisco. The girl is 16 years of age, and the daughter of a Jap who keeps a lodging house in San Francisco. She eloped with a young man and went to Sacramento, and her father employed Asano, another Japanese, to bring her back, which he did. Her father then concluded to send his daughter to Portland, and gave Asano $48 to purchase tickets for that place for the young Japanese girl, a detective and a friend.

Instead of buying tickets for Portland, he hirself eloped with the pretty young miss and the couple came to this city. When Uwahashi learned of the perfidy of the young man whom he had trusted he swore out a warrant for his arrest for embezzlement.

HUNGER IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Twenty-five Thousand Laborers Unemployed—A Parade to Prove It.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—Several hundred unemployed workingmen decided at a meeting to-day to hold a monster parade on some day yet to be chosen. The object of their parade will be to show that their necessities have not been exaggerated, and especially to prove the truth of their claim that there are no less than 25,000 laboring men out of employment in San Francisco.

CALIFORNIA NEWS ITEMS.

A Drunken Captain Drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—The body of Captain Alfred Phillips, of the collier Alaska, who had been missing since Monday night, was found stuck in the mud of the bay, near Fremont-street wharf, this morning. His brother-in-law, David F. Hampton, says that early Monday evening, Phillips came to his house, and they had a couple of drinks together. They then started out and visited a number of saloons, finally bringing up on the Alaska. Here Hampton says that his remembrance of events of that night ceases. Speaking of it he recollects is finding himself in the water. He went down twice, and the cold water completely sobered him. On rising for the second time he grabbed a pile and shouted for help, and was helped out. He could not say how he got into the water, but what he and became of Phillips. The supposition is that both men were so drunk that while going ashore they fell overboard.

The Spreckels Sugar Corner.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—No new features developed to-day in regard to the sugar situation, prices remaining as before, while a tendency was also noticeable among retail dealers to take a much more sanguine view of the prospects than was possible during the days of the first alarm. There seems to be a growing belief that while the California sugar refinery undoubtedly controls the situation, at present, at least, no effort can be made by the owners, the Spreckels, to take advantage of it, and confidence in the security of the refinery seems also to be on the increase.

Death of a Rich Scotch Immigrant.

SAN DIEGO, Feb 27.—[Special Telegram.]—Michael Bruce, oldest son of Sir Michael Bruce, baronet, of Scotland, died at Escenada last night of influenza. He and a younger brother had just purchased the large Mejatamal ranch, thirty miles north of Escenada. While out there over night Bruce took a cold which was not considered dangerous, but last night it assumed the form of pneumonia and he died while asleep. He was very popular.

Snowplow Agonishes Truckee.

TRUCKEE, Cal., Feb. 27.—The thermometer was 23 deg. below zero this morning. The weather is clear, and trains are running smoothly. The Union Pacific rotary plow cleaned out the sidestracks, throwing the snow on the Front-street sidewalk, 200 feet away, breaking many windows on River street and throwing snow over the houses.

Murderer Naughton Held Without Bail.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—The examination of John F. Naughton for the murder a few weeks since of Marcus M. Herr, at one time assistant sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate, was concluded to-day, and Naughton was held to answer to the charge of murder, without bail.

Colonel Donohue Still Hilr Worse.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—At a late hour to-night Colonel J. Mervyn Donohue, president of the San Francisco & Northern Pacific railroad, was resting easily. His condition has changed slightly for the worse since yesterday, when his friends entertained hopes of his ultimate recovery.

The Mariposa Stage Robbery.

MERCED, Cal., Feb. 27.—Officers started out last night as soon as news reached here of the stage robbery, but no one has been captured thus far. It is reported, however, that officers are shadowing certain parties whom they have good reasons to suspect.

Dr. Lefevre, the Traveler, Dead.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—Dr. H. C. Lefevre, the noted traveler, died to-day. For the past ten years he has been traveling in Europe and Asia. He was a son of Dr. Lefevre, who was the lifelong companion of Captain Cook.

CABLE NOTES.

Little Abraham Lincoln Still Lives.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Master Abraham Lincoln, who was reported dead last night, has rallied. Minister Lincoln stated this afternoon that his son surprised all around him by not only surviving the night, but by having sufficient strength this morning to permit a tapping operation being performed which greatly relieved the heart and lungs from effusion. It was feared that this operation, in the patient's feeble condition, might be fatal, but it was not. This afternoon another operation was performed and a drain inserted in the affected part, and the matter is now flowing freely from it. Though he is still in danger, the physicians and parents are not without hopes of recovery.

A Famous Austrian Murders His Son.

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—Emil Neumann, who is under arrest for the murder of his son, is well known to musicians all over the world by his "History of Music." The motive for the crime is supposed to have been the son's discovery of his father's systematic criminal conduct with many of his pupils, who belong to the best families.

Stanley to Reach London April 15.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—A letter from Stanley was read at a meeting of the corporation of the city of London to-day. Stanley says he hopes to arrive in London by April 15, when he will receive the address which it is the intention of the corporation to present him.

The Duke of Seville Pardoned.

MADRID, Feb. 27.—The Duke of Seville has been pardoned by the queen. He was condemned to banishment in 1886 for speaking of her majesty in insulting terms because she refused him an audience. He was an adherent of ex-Queen Isabella.

This Would Exclude Chinese, Too.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 27.—A large number of residents have petitioned parliament to pass a law prohibiting the employment of any except British subjects as masters, mates or engineers on Canadian inland waters, and that foreigners be prohibited from engaging Canada under contract to perform labor. This is in retaliation for the United States contract labor law.

HARD ROAD TO TRAVEL

Trains Beginning to Run on the Oregon & California.

WEATHER FAVORABLE FOR REPAIRS

Thrilling Stories of Survivors of the Hassayampa Water Avalanche—Floods Still Inflicting Much Damage Upon Arizona.

ASHLAND, Feb. 27.—Railway people set the time of completion of repairs at the big slide at Cow creek canyon, at about a month hence. In the meantime, commencing yesterday, passengers can travel through from Ashland to Roseburg by irregular trains by making a wagon transfer between Glendale and Riddle's. They are allowed to carry not exceeding 50 pounds of baggage each. No mails have as yet, since the blockade, taken this route for the north.

North of Roseburg to Portland regular passenger trains run on schedule time. South of Ashland trains run each way also at every alternate day as far as Sisson, beyond which to San Francisco a daily train has been kept going.

The only impediment now in the way is that of the slide at tunnel 9, where a transfer has to be made. It is expected that by Monday this hamper will be removed. If the present cold, bright weather continues, in all probability it will.

SISSON, Cal., Feb. 27.—To-day was the coldest of the season, being four below zero at 5 o'clock this morning. The first pay-car in sixty days arrived to-day. There is a daily passenger service now between Ashland and tunnel 9, but no freights are yet running.

PROBABLY SEVENTY WERE LOST.

Additional List of Victims of the Walnut Grove Disaster.

PHOENIX, Feb. 27.—Sheriff O'Neill, who went to the scene of the Walnut Grove disaster, returned to Phoenix to-day with an additional list of the victims as far as known. The following have been found and buried:

M. C. NICHOLS.
FRANCISCO CAISINO.
SAMUEL BARLOGIS.
DANIEL BOONE and daughter.
MRS. L. D. HAINES and four children.
JAMES FAVSHAW.
JAMES BOLLINGER.
JAMES SOAM.
PHIL COKWAY.
Four Chinamen and one Chinawoman.
Seven unknown white men.

The following are known to be lost, but their bodies have not yet been found:

GEORGE CLARK.
STEPHEN LITTLE.
G. L. WHITE.
Three Chinamen.

Two miners named Mahoney and Thompson are still missing, and it is feared they were lost. The list of the dead will probably reach sixty-five or seventy.

PRESCOTT, Feb. 27.—A second courier to the Journal-Miner arrived late this afternoon from the site of the big dam which caused the great disaster, the roads being in such a condition still that it is almost impossible to travel. He interviewed Captain Hunt, recently of the United States army, who was on watch with Superintendent Brown when the dam gave way. He stated that the water had been rising at the rate of a foot and a half an hour all day Friday, and all the men that could be secured, about twenty in all, had been employed in blasting a waste waterway to increase its capacity, all the other gates for allowing escape of the water being wide open. Even after the water reached the waste waterway, the bottom of which was several feet lower than the top of the dam, there was no perceptible decrease in the rise of water. At 5 o'clock it commenced to go over the top, and by midnight a sheet of water three feet deep was pouring over it. Captain Hunt said the first sign of the break was the snapping of a large steel cable connecting the tower in the middle of the dam with the bank. This occasioned a loud report, and he said it seemed as if a ball of fire was shot from it. At first Superintendent Brown and himself, who were standing on the bank within twenty feet of the water, thought that some giant powder exploded.

The next instant the tower tottered, and it seemed as if the entire dam, containing 90,000 tons of rock, all moved bodily at once, the roar of the waters and the grinding of boulders being perfectly deafening.

F. M. Packer, a placer miner, lived about a mile below the dam. He has long hair, reaching away down on his shoulders, to which he says he never has had a trim. When the roof of his cabin, which he was clinging, floated in to the side of the canyon, his hair caught on some bushes, and, unlike Absalom, his long hair proved the means of saving him instead of causing his death. The messenger sent to warn those at the lower dams and who failed to do so on account of getting drunk, has not been seen since.

The first of the survivors to arrive in Prescott reached here this afternoon, when John Harder, Ed Davis and W. M. Russell came in, all of them being more or less bruised and skinned from climbing the steep hill among the cactus and sharp rocks to escape from the flood. John Harder gave his experience as follows:

"I was camped on Barren creek in a tent with three others, and went to bed at 10. Some time after midnight I was awakened by a deafening roar, when I jumped out of bed and yelled at the others: 'The dam has broken; get up and run for your lives!' We were all dressed only in our underclothes. Under my pillow were my pants, with about $200 in the pockets, and my vest contained two fine gold watches, but I had no time to stop for either. We all ran for dashes up hill for the high ground. As I reached a little raise I fell down, when the water struck me, but I managed to run on my hands and knees for quite a distance, when I got up again and looking around saw a wave at least six feet high strike the tent, and it was gone. The distance between the bluffs at this point is about 200 yards, and the water filled this space sixty feet deep.

"The first person I saw was Tom Boone, who had his little sister in his arms, having carried her from their tent, saving her life. Mrs. Boone came up soon afterwards and said her husband had been lost. He had been the first one to hear the coming of the avalanche of water and had awakened the others. While he was still in the tent the boy rushed out of the tent, and, seeing his little sister, grabbed her in his arms and ran. His mother followed. When Mr. Boone came out, not knowing that the girl was safe, he went around the tent to look for her instead of running direct to the hill, and in doing so was overtaken and drowned. Mrs. Boone was knocked down and narrowly escaped being drawn into the flood. Her daughter, aged 14, who started with her, was lost.

"A huge boulder weighing hundreds of tons, in front of our tent, was swept away, and the next day I went down the cut five miles in search of bodies, and saw no trace of it. At the upper dam the company had a twenty-horse-power upright boiler and engine that had been used in running a sawmill, and not even a bolt of it was to be found as far down the stream as Wickenburg, thirty miles below.

"Some Indians had been left on a high bluff near the lower dam, which was not reached by the water. Coffins are being made of this and then floated down the stream to where the bodies are found. The latter being buried where found. The bodies when found had all been badly mutilated, some even beyond recognition, excepting that of the little 2-year-old baby of Dr. Haynes's family. It was found at Wickenburg, thirty miles below where the family were when the water struck them and swept them out of existence. This baby when found was perfectly nude, but beyond a few small scratches was otherwise unmarked, and looked as peaceful and calm as though asleep. Thirty-seven bodies in all have been recovered.

PRESCOTT, A. T., Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—Reports from outside places show that outside of the Walnut Grove disaster great damage has been done by the recent floods, though no lives are reported lost. At the Cleveland ranch $50,000 worth of concentrates were washed away. The Esta mill, on Verde river, is gone, and the house occupied by Charles A. Clarke and wife swept away, with everything in it, leaving them with nothing but the clothes on their backs. Storm reports from all sections say the water was the highest ever known.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—Heavy rains continue to prevail in Arizona. Last night floods warned out a large portion of the Prescott & Arizona Central railway. Telegraph communication has also been cut off from Prescott so that the exact nature of the damage is not known.

THE OHIO RIVER FLOOD.

Rain Stops Falling, and Fears Are Abated—The Mountains Crumbling.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 27.—At a late hour to-night the rain which has been falling since daybreak stopped. Unless there is another very heavy fall in the next few days there is no danger of serious damage here, and it is thought the river will not rise much more. Some of the railroad tracks are covered, and ingress to the central depot for those roads is impossible. If the weather clears it is thought the situation will materially improve to-morrow. While there will be much discomfort and considerable loss, there is no apprehension of devastation by floods like those of 1883 and 1884, when the water reached seventy-one feet, unless there should be phenomenally rainy weather in the next four days. The present stage drives out many families in the low grounds of Cincinnati, Covington, Newport and other points along the river.

A storm is reported central about Nashville, Tenn. At this writing (11 o'clock) it is causing grave apprehension here. If the precipitation in the next twenty-four hours should be as great in the Ohio valley as it has been at Memphis and Nashville from the storm approaching from that direction, it will doubtless cause a great flood.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 27.—The Ohio river has reached flood stage. A scare was started to-night and a number of families in the districts submerged in 1884 moved out, but there is little fear of such a repetition to-day. The river is still rising. C. A. Wooster, who has just returned from Middleborough and intermediate points, says the Cumberland is higher than it has ever been, and the rivers and creeks are out of bounds all along. There have been landslides, and in places big tracts of country are submerged. Several towns have suffered considerable damage. The floods have stopped the railways to a considerable extent. News comes from the mountain section of numerous landslides and washouts.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 27.—The unusual rain fall over the entire water shed in the Mississippi and Ohio rivers and their tributaries since Saturday last portends evil to the low lands protected by levees in the Yazoo, Delta and Tensas basins. The worst is feared for the newly-constructed levees along the Tensas basin. The outlook in the section through which the Yazoo and Arkansas rivers pass is not encouraging. Both streams are rising fast, and people living along the banks are moving their stock to places of safety.

TOMAHAWK, Miss., Feb. 27.—Yesterday afternoon a heavy wind and rain storm struck this place, doing an immense amount of damage. A heavy rain is still falling and the streets are flooded.

A TRAIN RACES WITH FIRE.

Rushing to a Water Tank to Quench Flames in a Mail Car.

DENVER, Feb. 27.—An Ogden, Utah, special to the Republican says: There was an interesting and exciting race on the Central Pacific this morning near Blue Creek, thirty-five miles west of here. It was a race against time, and the goal ahead was a water tank six miles distant. As the westbound fast mail reached a point six miles east of Blue Creek, the engineer discovered that a mail car, which was filled with through mail, was on fire. An effort was made to put it out, but there being no water near, the engineer threw open the throttle and resolved to reach a water tank if possible in time to save the valuable cargo. Each minute the burning train was a mile nearer the promised rescue. Six minutes landed the burning train under the spout of the tank, but too late. The interior was a seething mass of flames, and 158 sacks of through mail were almost totally consumed.

Word soon spread through the coaches that the train was on fire. The greatest excitement prevailed, and only the lightning speed of the train prevented passengers from jumping from the cars. Thomas O. Richey, chief clerk of the railway mail service at Ogden, was on the train. He says he is unable to give even a theory of the firing of the train, as it seems impossible that it should have caught from flying sparks.

MRS. OLIPHANT'S NEW PLOT.

Endeavored to Delude Her Old Father Into Signing Away His Property.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—Amos Liversedge, aged nearly 70, has won $14,000 from his children, after having against their wishes married a beautiful young English woman, Mrs. Eliza Mayber. Liversedge claimed that when his children, Joseph Liversedge, Mrs. Louisa Oliphant, the authoress, and Mrs. Emma West, learned that he had become engaged to Mrs. Mayber, whom he met while traveling in England, they hoodwinked him into deeding his property to them, pretending it was a will he was signing.

On returning from his wife four the old gentleman, who is infirm, discovered that the document he had signed was a regular conveyance. The children swore the deed was a voluntary act, and that the attempt to nullify it was at the instance of his new young wife. Judge Tuley held that the children had imposed on their father. The old man was delighted.

GROVER CLEVELAND'S LUCK.

He Sells His Washington Suburban Property for Nearly Five Times Its Cost.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The Evening Star says that F. G. Newlands, representing the California syndicate which recently made extensive purchases of suburban real estate adjoining the city on the northwest, has purchased from ex-President Cleveland his country place on Tenallytown road, near the city, known as Oakview. The price paid for the house and about twenty-nine acres of land is $140,000. The property was purchased by Cleveland four years ago, and with the improvements since made, cost him $90,000.

THE THIEF OF TIME.

Olympia Legislature Procrastinates the Tide Lands Bill.

THE HOUSE WASTES HALF THE DAY

Senate Goes Adrift on the Sea of President Parkinson's Decision.—House Members of the Adjournment Committee Appointed.

OLYMPIA, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—Contrary to expectations, the tideland fight was not resumed in the house to-day. Yesterday a test having manifested the insufficiency of the voting strength of the improvement owners, many of them were loth to bringing matters to a crisis on the proposed amendment to section 10. The more sanguine of them were confident that their amendment would prevail, and wanted a vote immediately.

When the house met in the morning it refused to take up the bill, and proceeded with the regular order of business. When the afternoon session began Kuhn, one of the upland leaders, moved to defer consideration of the bill until Thursday next at 2 P. M. This provoked an extended debate and some confusion. Kuhn thought there would be a larger attendance a week from to-day and the bill would obtain more satisfactory consideration. Herren, who was against the committee bill yesterday, offered an amendment fixing Monday next for action on the bill. Moulroy, another opponent of the rights of upland owners, protested against deferment. So did Turner. Gandy suggested 2 P. M. to-morrow. His suggestion was rejected—yeas 25, nays 33. Herren's amendment was then sent to grass. Judson of Whatcom then named Tuesday, and Pickrell 3 P. M. to-day. It was then within twenty minutes of that time. "Will you accept Wednesday as a compromise?" asked Kuhn of Judson. "No," came from several parts of the house. The Judson Pickrell amendments were then rejected and Kuhn's original motion adopted by a vote of—yeas 32, nays 26.

Some of the advocates of the rights of upland owners are disgusted with the delay, and concede that it gives them a setback, while others have just the opposite opinion. Some of their friends are away, and they are waiting for them to return.

The senate would not take up the tide land bill to-day. Action was deferred until Tuesday. Hyde was the only one who voted against postponement.

Under the provisions of the state library bill, which was passed in the senate to-day, the librarian will receive $1000 salary, and be compelled to give a bond of $2500.

Governor Ferry notified the senate to-day that he had signed senate bill 105, authorizing the commissioners of Medical Lake asylum to transfer to and receive certain lands from E. L. Smith, and senate bill 107, relating to crimes and punishments.

The house spent the afternoon in considering Cook's bill for the sale and lease of school lands. It creates the secretary of state, state auditor and public land commissioner, a state land commission for the disposition of lands. The house went into committee of the whole and put in two hours perfecting section 10, and wound up by killing half of the section, and retained that portion of it which makes it a misdemeanor for any person to take up land except as a purchaser or lessee. After reading the bill through, the committee arose and reported progress.

President Pro Tem Parkinson made eleven separate and distinct rulings in ten minutes in the senate this morning. The vote on concurrence in the house amendments to Kinnear's soldiers' home bill was ayes 16, noes 14, and the chair declared the amendments concurred in. Dunn promptly appealed from the decision, holding that concurrence required a majority of the entire senate, or eighteen votes. Tais rattled Parkinson worse than ever.

"Give us a decision," came from every part of the house.

"What decision shall I give?" answered Parkinson. "I have made my decision."

Farris made matters worse by moving to reconsider the vote by which concurrence had failed, after the chair had decided that the senate had concurred.

Confusion reigned the next half-hour. Drum, Whalley and Wilson said some very sharp-edged things about the president pro tem. Whalley advised Dunn to anchor to his decisions or he would find himself away out in the straits of San Juan de Fuca. The senate got out of the muddle by accepting Fairweather's motion to take a recess, and when it reconvened, with the lieutenant-governor in the chair, it was duly refused to concur, without acting upon Drum's appeal.

The joint committee on compensation of county officers to-night reconstructed its bill. The sliding scale of salaries on the basis of population is retained, but on a different calculation. The counties are arranged in twenty-nine classes, the lowest being 3000 and the highest 80,000. In classes up to 10,000 salaries are fixed by the percentage of population. Above 10,000 definite salaries are named in the bill for each class of counties. This bill would give the auditor in the lowest class of counties $300 per annum; in counties of 45,000, in which class it was thought King would be, $2250. This latter sum would be the highest salary paid any officer. Clerk and deputy hire and all other expenses are to be allowed by the county commissioners, and the fees go into the treasury. Assessors and commissioners will be paid by the day, and coroners and surveyors by fees. Forsyth and Blair are the subcommittee to perfect the bill and report to the full committee.

The joint committee appointed before the holidays to look into the title of the university lands heard testimony to-night. John Fisher, a Seattle attorney, gave it as his opinion that the state has an absolute title to the university site at Seattle and could sell it if it pleased. He estimated the site to be worth half a million. John Keane, formerly a member of the territorial legislature, testified that the sale of university lands under the Daniel Bagley regime was as bad as it could possibly be. He continued: "The lands were frittered away recklessly, and nothing remains except the rickety wooden buildings on the site at Seattle, donated by A. A. Denny and wife. Bagley's selections under list 2 were invalid."

When the house met this morning Hutchinson offered a resolution declaring all clerks and employes public officers and servants. He explained, that the house recently raised the salaries of several clerks, and if they were public officers the increase was unconstitutional. Kuhn said the resolution went too far, in that if adopted it would necessitate the removal of nearly every Governor Ferry having recently vetoed a bill which made women public officers. The resolution was indefinitely postponed.

Speaker Feighan this morning appointed Goetheean, Browne of Pierce, Montross, Herren, McElroy, Nims, Grubb, Ellens, Ostrander and Kuhn to act with the senate committee appointed to examine pending measures and suggest a date of final adjournment. The representatives are the chairmen of the ten principal committees of the house.

Sent for Payne's bill authorizing superior judges to appoint court commissioners hanging the powers of courts in chambers was passed in the house this afternoon. The commissioner may be a lawyer or simply an elector. The emergency clause failed by one vote to obtain the necessary two-thirds vote to put it into effect immediately.

Senate Proceedings.

In the senate the following bills were read the third time:

By Lodg—Establishing a normal school at Cheha'is; passed.

By Evans—Relative to transcripts of judgments; passed.

By Ide—Relative to corporation stocks and bonds; passed.

By the judiciary committee—Relative to witnesses and evidence.

By the committee on the state library—Relative to the state library; passed.

By Horse—Authorizing the county commissioners to issue bonds; passed.

By Lucas—Creating a board of capitol commissioners; passed.

By Austin—Granting certain tide lands to the United States; passed.

By the judiciary committee—Authorizing counties to contract indebtedness.

By Drew—House concurrent resolution memorializing congress relative to a United States naval station; passed.

BIG BLOW AT ANACORTES.

The "Oldest Inhabitant" Again Floored—No Damage Done, However.

ANACORTES, Wash., Feb. 28.—[Special Correspondence.]—At about 4:30 A. M. yesterday commenced one of the strongest gales ever witnessed here by even the oldest inhabitant. Blowing stronger and stronger each succeeding hour, by noon time it had approached the force of a small hurricane. While many tents give small but pleasing evidences of interest during the continuance of the storm, there has up to this hour been no damage reported here as a result of the big blow.

The boats on the waters of the Sound, however, owing to the continuance of the storm, had rather a rough experience. The steamer Merrill, bound for Whatcom, was compelled to put back to port, and the boats of Washington were also obliged to return, after making three futile attempts to cross to Bellingham bay. Among the detained passengers by the storm was Mr. Nelson Rounsell, a well-known railway contractor of Tacoma and Fairhaven.

No other vessels put in an appearance at the dock during the day, they all having been detained at Seattle and Tacoma, where the storm raged even more furiously than here, although it was general throughout the Sound, and all inclusive by seamen have been the heaviest hurricane ever known in these parts.

What might have been a serious conflagration happened at the Arcade, arising from a defective flue, but thanks to the untiring energy of the "boys," forming the "impromptu fire brigade," the flames were quickly subdued, and as a result, very little damage was done.

The buildings, under the contracts let last week, have all been commenced, and the next sixty days will make a vast difference in the general appearance of the city, which continues to go ahead with marvellous rapidity. The wharf, with its present large dimensions, is not large enough to accommodate the increased travel and freight traffic which arrives in Anacortes daily, and another is to be constructed at the foot of I avenue without delay.

It is certain that the feelings and conditions now existing will speedily justify the rapid development that is taking place in Anacortes.

She Will Be a "Flyer."

Fast Time Promised Between Seattle, Tacoma and Anacortes.

ANACORTES, Wash., Feb. 26.—[Special Correspondence.]—An order has been telegraphed to San Francisco for a 150 000 steamer, to carry passengers between Tacoma, Seattle and Anacortes. The new boat will be a propeller, she will be elegantly fitted throughout, and will be able to attain a very high rate of speed. The money for the new boat will be furnished by prominent parties in Anacortes.

Speculation on the Alaska Bids.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—A special from Washington says: It is now believed the Alaska Commercial Company's bid for seal fisheries in Alaska will be rejected by the secretary of the treasury, and the bids adopted of the Atlantic & Pacific Company, which includes D. O. Mills, Thomas C. Platt, of New York, and J. Taylor. Lloyd Tevis, the president, says there is little hope for the Alaska Commercial Company. The president of one of the companies bidding has figured out the relative bids of each company on the basis of a catch of 60,000 seals the year, and thinks the bids range about thus: 1, North American Commercial Co., $637,500, or $10 87½ per skin; 2, American Fishing & Trading Company, $552,000, or $9 20½ per skin; 3, Atlantic & Pacific Trading Company, $542,505, or $9 04 per skin; 4, North American Commercial Company, of Illinois, $482,500, or $8 04⅙ per skin; 5, Pacific Steam Whaling Company, $379,000, or $7 98⅓ per skin; 6 North American Trading Company, $446,000, or $7 43⅓ per skin; 7, Alaska Commercial Company, $340,000, or $7 33⅓ per skin; 8, E. W. Clark, $293,500, or $6 50 per skin.

Charges Against Bishop Esher.

SHANGKIN, Feb. 27.—The Eastern Pennsylvania Evangelical conference was opened this morning by Bishop J. J. Esher, of Chicago. The charges preferred against Bishop Esher by four elders March 19 were fixed for trial. Bishop Esher was then requested to vacate the chair, but declined, stating that he had been obligated to occupy the chair, and his duty would not permit him to vacate it. The charges against Bishop Esher are: First, slander and evil speaking; second, falsehood; third, misrepresentations to the church.

The charges are the same charges that were preferred against Bishop Esher in Chicago. An investigation last December resulted in his acquittal. The bishop to-day refused to offer any explanation to the charges, claiming he had been tried and acquitted. After his refusal to vacate the chair a resolution was presented by Rev. Mr. Hanna declaring that Bishop Esher was an "improper person to preside over the conference," but the bishop would not recognize the motion for its adoption. Adjourned until to-morrow.

A Floating Hospital.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Malarial fever did good work among the crew of the ship Brandtzie, of St. Johns, N. F., on a voyage from Barcelona to this port, which terminated this morning. She left Barcelona thirty days ago, with Captain Foote and a crew of five men. When she arrived this morning only her captain and one sailor were left to navigate her. Three of the crew died on the voyage, and one sailor lay more dead than alive in the cabin. The victims were stricken immediately after the schooner left Barcelona. For three weeks Captain Foote, with the assistance of one seaman, navigated the schooner and attended to the wants of the sick men in the cabin.

Don Pedro Dreams of Restoration.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Dr. Morel, editor of La Nacion, of Buenos Ayres, has written a letter to Dr. Mendonca, Brazilian minister at Washington, giving part of an interview with Don Pedro. The ex-emperor said the republicans will be able to govern the country because the Brazilians are a patriotic people. He would continue to serve them in Europe as he had done in Brazil. In case of future complications and a call from the people to return to the throne he would respond. He would not, however, do anything to cause strife among the people.

Chicago's Great Masonic Temple.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—The first installment of the purchase price of the site of the new Masonic temple to be erected at the corner of Randolph and State streets will be paid to-morrow. The plan of the Masons projects a temple to cost $3,000,000 and intended to be one of the grandest structures of the kind in existence. It is expected to be completed in time for the opening of the world's fair, and to be made the occasion of one of the largest and most gorgeous Masonic pageants ever seen in the country.

Evidently an Enemy of the Doctor.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27.—About midnight an unknown man called at the residence of Dr. Alexander Neil, one of the leading physicians of this city. The doctor came to the door, when a man drew a revolver, and placing it against his head, pulled the trigger. The cartridge failed to explode and the doctor grabbed him. After a desperate struggle he wrested the revolver from the man, and the latter ran away. He afterwards came back and smashed several windows with rocks. The police cannot find him.

Blizzard Sweeps Missouri and Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 27.—Dispatches from Missouri and Kansas state that a blizzard from the northwest prevailed throughout those states today. The wind blew at a high rate and the thermometer was about zero.

FIVE DOCTORS FAILED.

How D. L. Ferguson Was Cured By Dr. Darrin With Electricity—Other Notable Cases.

Editor Oregonian: This is to certify that I have been afflicted with sciatic rheumatism for the past three years; at times wholly unable to walk or sit in any position only with the greatest pain. I have applied to five different physicians of different schools of practice, and tried many patent medicines, all to no avail. After coming under Dr. Darrin's electric treatment I am perfectly and permanently cured, and can be seen at the United States restaurant on Morrison street, Portland. D. L. FER

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Stocks were quiet to-day and fluctuations reflect general apathy, operations being confined to the smallest fractions except in a few stocks which are now objects of attention from bears and traders. Sugar rose six per cent this week, the bears selling it down on a story that the courts would interfere with payment of the next dividend. The market closed dull and heavy. Final changes are in most cases in the direction of lower prices.

Government steady.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—Produce receipts past 24 hours included: 207,200 ctls wheat, 70,000 qr sks flour, 100 ctls barley, 3400 ctls oats; 6000 sks potatoes.

Tonnage and Charters.—Grain tonnage for the week has been firmly held, but in light demand. Actual grain chartering has taken place, however, for 1900 tons for U. K., Havre or Antwerp, prior to arrival at 37s 6d; for U. K., Havre or Antwerp, prior to arrival at 37s 6d; Br bk Glenesslin, 1394 tons, for U. K., Havre or Antwerp, prompt, 37s 6d; Ger sh Helen, 1430 tons for U. K., Havre or Antwerp, prompt spot at 38s; Ger sh Helen, 1430 tons for U. K., Havre or Antwerp, prompt spot at 38s; Ger sh Helen, 1430 tons for U. K., Havre or Antwerp, prompt spot at 38s. Wheat has been active for the week, and 20 vessels at full rates. The charters for the week have been bks Melrose and Detroit, to load at Seattle. Ships Rufus, E. Wood and India, at Nanaimo, and bk Gen. Fairchild, at Departure bay, all for this port. The demand for lumber carriers continues good but the scarcity of tonnage offering, prevents any activity in chartering. The sch Sailor Boy has been recently chartered to load on the Sound for the West coast and bk Matilda, Sound to Honolulu.

Wheat—Throughout the week there has been but little variation as to prices or general trade features worthy of special notice. There has been a moderate export demand with liberal offerings, so that buyers were able to supply their wants without affecting market values. For standard No. 1 shipping, $1 25¾ to $1 27½ per cental have been the prevailing prices, the higher figure being obtainable only for round parcels. At the close the feeling is rather firmer. Futures: Speculative trading was on a limited scale. Fluctuations were within the range of ½@1c per cental. At to-day's forenoon call the following sales were recorded: Buyer year, 500 tons at $1 26¾; 1100 tons at $1 26½; buyer season sold at $1 29½.

Afternoon session—Buyer year, $1 27; buyer season, $1 30½.

Barley—Business in this cereal has been very unsatisfactory. Receipts have not been large and sellers have shown a willingness to shade prices to do business, yet these factors had but little effect upon buyers who purchased sparingly and only sufficient to cover immediate wants. Choice feed is mostly nominal at 77½c, while good feed lacks support at 75@76c per cental. Lower feed grades are 72½@75½c. Brewing barley holds steady at 82½c@$1 for good to choice. Options ruled dull and weak. Buyer year, 82¾c; buyer season, 75½c.

Afternoon call—Buyer year, 82¾c; buyer season, 75½c.

Oats—The market lost the activity of the previous week and settled down into the old "steady and quiet" groove. Consignment is show a falling off and stocks in city warehouses have been steadily reduced, yet buyers show no present disposition to stock ahead and appear to be working on the belief that prices must weaken still further in sympathy with other cereals. We quote: Milling oats, $1 35@1 37½; choice feed, $1 32½@1 35; No. 1 feed, $1 27½@1 32½; common, $1 15@1 25 per ctl.

Middlings—A fair business has prevailed, with supplies and demand about balancing. Quote: All kinds, $16 50@19 50 per ton.

Bran—Trade fairly good to steady prices. Quote: $13@14 per ton.

Hops—Very little to report in this line. Offerings are of small proportions while the demand is restricted to choice which finds custom at about 13@13½c per pound, lower qualities range at 8@12½c.

Potatoes and Onions—Both firm and in good demand. Quote: Burbanks, $20@22½; Garnet Chiles, $20@22 per ctl; Peerless $1 50@... Onions, 2@2½c per pound.

Wool—Very quiet. Oregon valley, nominal, 18@22½; Eastern Oregon, 13@19c per pound.

Butter and Eggs—Easy and moderately active.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Wheat receipts at the principal Eastern points past 24 hours were 242,000 bushels and shipments were 97,000 bushels.

Wheat—Quiet but firm. Prices during the day were as follows: May opened 77½c. Sold at 78½c at noon. Closing—78¼. February closed at 76¾c and March at 76¾c.

Provisions—Steady. Pork, $9 72½ March; lard, $5 75 March; ribs, $4 75 March.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Cattle—Receipts, 2000; steady to strong; beeves, $4 50@4 90; steers, $3 50@4 10; stockers and feeders, $2 40@3 60; Texas corn-fed steers, $3 80@4 40.

Sheep—Receipts, 6000; shipments, 10,000; slow and a shade lower; natives, $4 50@5 50; Western corn-fed, $4 90@5.

Hogs—Receipts, 22,000; steady; mixed, $3 80@4; heavy, $3 85@4 05; light, $3 80@4 05.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Grain freights to Liverpool, by steamer, firmer and advanced to 5½d per bushel.

Wheat—Firm; closed higher. Prices were as follows: Opened—85c February, 86½c March, 86¾c May, 89½c June. Noon—86¼c March, 86½c May, 85¾c June. Closed—86¾c March, April and May; 85¾c June.

MISCELLANEOUS MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Coffee—Options closed steady; sales, 47,250 bags; February, $16 60@16 70; May, $16 40@16 45. Spot Rio, firm; fair cargoes, 20c.

Sugar—Firm.

Copper—Neglected; lake, March, $14 05.

Lead—Steady; domestic, $3 87½.

Tin—Easier; straits, $20 45.

Petroleum opened steady at $1 00¾, but gave way under forced sales and declined to 98c. A reaction followed, closing steady at 99¾c. Stock Exchange, opening, $1 00¾; highest $1 00¾, lowest 98c, closing 99¾c. Consolidated Exchange, opening, $1 00¾; highest $1 00¾, lowest 99¾c, closing, 99¾c. Total sales, 925,000 barrels.

Bar Silver—99¾c.

IDEAL BROILING.

Broiling can be done in the oven of the Charter Oak Range or Stove with the Wire Gauze Oven Door, more perfectly than over the live coals.

Lay the steak, chops, ham or fish on a wire broiler or meat rack, placing it in an ordinary bake pan to catch the drippings.

Allow it to remain in the oven with the door closed 15 or 20 minutes. No turning is required. At the end of this time it will be found nicely cooked ready to serve. THIS IS THE IDEAL WAY TO BROIL MEATS.

There is no taint of coal-gas or smoke, and the meats are more tender and better in flavor than those broiled over the coals. The convenience or broiling in the oven will be appreciated by every house-keeper, and adds another to the many reasons why the Charter Oak Range or Stove with the Wire Gauze Oven Door should be preferred to all others now in the market.

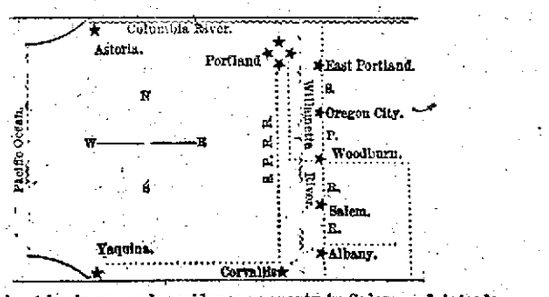
THE OREGON LAND CO.

Portland! Salem!



The choicest business and residence property in Salem and Astoria for sale. Also fine lands all through the valley.

IMPORTANT—The new cable line passes right through the Oregon Land Co.'s property in Astoria. They have only a few of those sightly two-acre blocks left. This magnificent property is within half a mile of the water front and is the finest acre property on the market, the property adjacent on both sides being platted. This will double in value as soon as work on the cable road commences.

A projectis on foot to establish a fruit and vegetable cannery at Eugene City.

Over seventy tons of hay that was stacked up in Prineville was disposed of in three days this week, and it went readily at $20 per ton.

An attempt is being made to secure a franchise at Astoria which will permit the operation of an American District Telegraph system.

It is rumored that Mr. E. B. Dufur, of The Dalles, will be a candidate for the office of prosecuting attorney of the Seventh judicial district, subject to the action of the democratic convention.

Damon Smith, the Harrisburg, Lane county, druggist, who was called out of his bed the other night to fill a prescription, and when he reached the store was bound, gagged and robbed of $900 and a watch, is yet unable to identify his assailants.

Two years ago a stranger was in the first house on Young's river, being confined there on account of smallpox. One night while in a delirium he evaded his attendants, waded out into the bay and was drowned. Now his bones lie bleaching in the sun and washed by the tides on the beach at Young's bay.

It is of the utmost importance, says the Weston Leader, that our citizens endeavor to secure an open road from Weston to the Umatilla river, across the reservation. We have but little of the trade from that section, owing to the fact that there is no way of reaching our city except by going through gates or in a roundabout way.

The counties are not responding in a very lively manner with state taxes this year, only two having sent in any, and these partial payments. Grant county sent in $3100 yesterday, and Washington was heard from last week. The law in this state seems to contemplate that each county shall pay its quota to the state out of the first moneys collected, the state suffering nothing from delinquency.

WASHINGTONIANA.

The storm on Monday did considerable damage along the water front at Seattle. One firm alone lost nearly one thousand piles.

The question of holding a road convention is being agitated in Whatcom county. Every county in the state should not only hold road conventions, but take active steps to improve public thoroughfares.

A jeweler of Rockford, Wash., recently presented the public school with a clock. This was followed by a more expensive one by a rival jeweler, and by the time the enthusiasm had subsided every room in the school house had a clock.

The Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern has, during the past ten days, received thirty new freight cars from the Pullman works. The cars were loaded with Juliet steel rails, which were forwarded to Blackman, to be used on the northern extension of the road.

California will possibly find a successful competitor in the raisin growing industry in Washington, as experiments on a small scale made with samples of the Foster grape near Walla Walla this season produces a quality of raisins fully equal to those of California.

Representative Nash, of the Washington legislature has received a letter from his home in Douglas county, saying that some people there are actually suffering for the necessaries of life, being shut out by the snow from all communication. The mail is carried on snowshoes.

The Portland Townsend council has decided to have the city ordinances published in pamphlet form, as the present way in which ordinances are kept is unsatisfactory and inconvenient. There are about 200 recorded ordinances to be printed and the cost to the city of codifying and printing them will be $300. The pamphlet will be ready some time next month.

It seems a little singular that forest fires should be burning at this season of the year, with five inches of snow on the ground, yet such a spectacle has been visible for the past few days at Schome. The woods a short distance up the bay have been illuminated by the burning trees at night and clouds of smoke have been seen drifting from them by day.

Mr Al Goldman brought into the Walla Walla Statesman office a few days ago three little rough pieces of gold, which his domestic found in the gizzard of a chicken while dressing it. The chicken was one of eighteen purchased by Mr. Mallory from a man who lives about six miles from town toward the foothills. It was probably lost by some one of the army of miners who made this valley their headquarters during the winter months.

The body is more susceptible to benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla now than at any other season.

THE TERRITORIAL RECORDS.

A Statement From Francis Henry Regarding the Purported Erasure.

OLYMPIA, Feb. 26.—[TO THE EDITOR.]—A report in your issue of yesterday of what purports to be my statement in regard to the act of the Washington territorial legislature of 1873, giving the Seattle & Walla Walla Railroad & Transportation Company title to tide lands in front of Seattle is incorrect in the particular that it represents me as having said that the bill referred to on file in the secretary's office has un doubtedly been altered by erasure and by changing the word "completed" to "commenced." By examination of the bill laid me to no such conclusion and I have made no statement to that effect to any person.

It is evident upon the face of the bill that it has been scratched and changed in two or three places, and I endeavored to say to your reporter that I had discovered no reason to conclude that these scratches and changes had not been made by the clerk who enrolled the bill. Said clerk made the same statement in substance to your reporter in my presence. In order to make my views still clearer, I stated that in 1873 these mud flats were considered worthless, and that it would be the most natural thing in the world for a legislature of that day to give them to any corporation which would promise to build a railroad from Seattle to anywhere—provided said donation was asked for by the local delegation from King county. This statement your reporter took down or professed to take down, but has seen fit to omit it from his report of what he represents me as saying.

I have no knowledge or information from any source whatever that leads me to the conclusion that this bill has been tampered with or changed since its passage and approval by the governor, and I have never expressed to any person whatever anything different from the above.

FRANCIS HENRY

A PIONEER'S EVIDENCE.

The Waters of the Smaller Streams Not as High as in Previous Floods.

SHERIDAN, Feb. 22.—[TO THE EDITOR.]—I differ with the statement made that water in the small streams west of the Willamette was higher than known before. I have been here since 1848, and remember that on January 8, 1850, the South Yamhill was one foot higher than the late flood, but the Willamette was highest in 1861-2.

The statement that the loss in Yamhill county would not exceed $10,000 is too low. In my opinion $50,000 will cover the losses.

The bridge on the Willamina at the town of Willamina is uninjured, but one up the stream has been destroyed. The new bridge built on the Yamhill last summer was washed away completely. In my opinion a good bridge can be built over Mill creek for $600, and another over the Yamhill river will cost $2300.

The weather is cold and feed is getting scarce. Much lumber will be cut this year in our mills. The construction of the Astoria and South Coast road will greatly benefit Sheridan.

B. R. BRANSON.

THE PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION.

WAITSBURG, Feb. 26.—TO THE EDITOR.]—In case of the removal or death of both president and vice president of the United States, in what way would the vacancy be filled? S. A. ESEY.

[Under the presidential suggession bill of 1852 the secretary of state would succeed, to serve until a new election could be ordered.]

NOT FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE

PORTLAND, Feb. 27.—[TO THE EDITOR.]—Will you please answer through your columns whether the United States postoffice department is or can be held responsible for money or valuables sent in a registered letter, providing the same are lost, and oblige MANY SUBSCRIBERS.

[The department is not responsible.]

Portland the Best Market.

GOLDENDALE, Feb. 25.—[Special Correspondence.]—The people of our county are much interested in the proposition to run the Hunt road into Portland. We hope for the success of the enterprise. A road is talked of to The Dalles, but your correspondent, in reason to our citizens talking on this subject, finds a general desire for the Hunt proposition, for the reason that it is believed that the line of the road must run through this valley and the fine timber and coal regions between here and Vancouver, and give us easy communication with Portland, our best market and trading center.

GATHERED ABOUT THE CITY.

The Two New Fire Engines Ordered by the Commissioners Are Here.

A Banquet to Be Tendered Judge Sabin on His Departure for San Francisco—Reformers Re-ported to Organize—Other Notes.

MR. VARNEY HAS PUT ON A NEW PATTERN of postage stamps. They are smaller than the present issue, and in different colors, but of the old style and in the same color or more correctly speaking, of the old ones. The 1-cent stamp is yellow and bears a picture of Benjamin Franklin, the 2-cent stamps bear a likeness of George Washington, and are what is commonly termed "the color more resembles the 2-cent carmine" but the color more resembles the old 2-cent red. The 4-cent stamps are in "royal purple," and, however, has no richness about it. Even the likeness which none of the post office clerks were able to recognize as Jackson, is different. The 5-cent stamps are in light brown, 6 cent, chocolate, 8-cent, green, 10-cent, steel blue, 30 cent, black, 90-cent, orange. Only specimens of the new issue were sent out, but the style and the varieties were sent out, and they will be the same as of the old issue, and the only advantage they have over the old ones is that they are about one-half smaller.

THE REV. ST. HELEN'S HALL.—Bishop Morris, who has been East for several months, reached San Francisco a few days since and is expected to arrive here on the next steamer. Having sold St. Helen's Hall block to be cut up into lots, he will proceed to build a new hall on property recently secured outside the city limits, the purpose in the change of location being to get more room for the buildings and to secure a better site for the structure to cost about $40,000. The buildings are not to be removed from the present site until June and the city lots bought by the city till June and the city for the location of leasing for the present hall for a term of years, but this will not likely be necessary, as it would cost more to change the build-ings than the rent of offices. As to what will be done with the building ogs to be removed no decis-ion has been arrived at yet.

IRVINGTON HOLLADAY ADDITION.—But little has been heard from improvements in Holladay addition for some time but a great deal of work has been done there. The whole tract is being cleared of stumps and the blocks are to be plowed and graded next. The proprietors do not seem to be in any hurry about selling the property, but are busy laying out a number of streets, and have made a contract with the Vancouver motor line to run a number of hundred yards of track from Woodlawn along the principal streets. A switch will be put in and a car will down one street after another as they are graded. The railway company have six cars coming from the East for a gravel train, and their prepare motor will be used in haul-ing the gravel train. There is an unexhaustible supply of gravel at Woodlawn, which will make excellent streets.

FOR INDIANS ARE HERE.—The two new en-gines ordered by the fire commissioners some time ago arrived over the Un on Pacific road yes-terday. They were at once unloaded and taken to the engine-house on First and Jefferson streets, where they will remain until the new engine houses under construction are completed. The houses are erected and elegantly finished in every case, but they are what Chief Morgan terms mechanisms they are what Chief Morgan terms "daisies," and it is believed that they will be a great addition to the efficiency of the fire department. The wheels and platforms are to be painted a bright red, while the boiler and other parts will be painted a dark green. The engines make a very handsome appearance. They will be used to-day.

BUILDING PERMITTED.—Some miserable scrub made a raid on the clothes-line of a washer-woman living at the corner of Sixth and H streets, Wednesday evening, and carried off about a dozen articles with her own hard earned money. A light who will steal from a poor woman ought to be taken in washing to support herself and children is none too good for the public whipping post, and if caught he should be given a dozen cart upon him. He was in no way con-nected with the shooting scrape, and is a man who enjoys the respect and confidence of all who know him.

REPUBLICAN REQUESTED TO ORGANIZE.—Feder-ated labor men, Knights of Labor, Granges, union labor men, anti-saloonists and others op-posed to the existing political conditions are re-quested to pool their issues in the organization of a union party club to-night at the old Arion hall, Sixth and Yamhill street, near Ladd's bank. Professor Beck, alyer Reed, Hon. H. E. Hayes master of the State Grange, Hon. A. R. Shipley, and others will address the meeting.

SHOT IN SELF DEFENSE.—A gentleman who arrived from the Gray's harbor country yesterday reports that Scott Evans, an engineer on the Gray's Harbor railroad, was attacked by a gang of toughs at Alma a day or two since, and that after being struck over the head by one of them he pulled a pistol and shot two of them, named Baker and Reynolds. Evans was arrested and held an examination, and was acquitted on the ground that he shot in self-defense.

DR. HEDGEPETH'S LECTURE.—This evening at the Taylor street church Dr. Ross C. Hongston will give the first of his literary lectures for this season. The entire course will be upon The Historical Writers of America. The exercises commence at 7:30 o'clock and will be preceded by a short musical programme. Admission free. All are welcome.

THE BENNER AID SOCIETY'S BALL.—The above named society will give their grand annual ball at Turner hall Saturday evening, March 1, 1890, for the benefit of their aid fund and extends a cordial invitation to all. Good music will be furnished and a pleasant evening may be had for the small sum of gentlemen, ladies free.

THE LATE JOHN SWEEK.—The funeral of the late John Sweek took place yesterday. A special train of the Portland & Willamette Valley railway brought the remains family and friends from Salem to the interview cemetery where the inter-ment took place, and then carried those in at-tendance home.

WORK WATER TO LAND.—Captain James T. Ivey is hanging out his shingle as a real estate broker, at No. 6 Alder street. The captain has determined to forsake the briny deep and hopes to make enough cash will stick to him to sink him forever, ventures to sail again. See his ad.

REV. ALFRED KUMMER, D. D., will give a prac-tical talk to young men to-night at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms, 132½ First street, Rubies. How may young men educate themselves? Young men are kindly invited to be present. Free to all.

EXPECTED SOON.—Mr. Charles R. Leland, manager of the Portland, who went to San Fran-cisco a short time since expecting to return on the same steamer, has been detained there by an at-tack of the malaria, but is expected to arrive here by the next steamer.

THE SPRING STYLES in silk hats and stiff hats will be issued on Saturday, March 1, at C. H. Meinhardt's, 146 First street.

ONLY TWO DAYS left the you can buy $25 suits at $15 at Kohn's, Second and Morrison.

FOR VANCOUVER.—Steamer Ione will leave 9 A. M. to-day from foot of Taylor street for Washington shore, or Vancouver. Saturday will make two round trips, leaving Portland 9 A. M. and 3 P. M., making close connections with Vancouver stages.

A NEW OFFICE BUILDING.—Work has been be-gun on a new office building for Weinhard's brewery, 40x100 feet. The business has grown be-yond the capacity of the present office building.

THE STONE MASONS' UNION of this city wish to notify all contractors and the public that their wages will continue the same during this sum-mer, $5 per day and nine hours.

CALEDONIAN CLUB.—Members and gentlemen friends are invited to attend a social in the club rooms this evening at 8 o'clock.

SHOALWATER BAY.—The steamer Dolphin sails to-morrow morning for the above port, freight re-ceived to-day foot of C street.

THE ALBINA FERRY is now making regular trips between Albina and Portland.

UNCLE MYERS'S collateral bank, 165 First street.

THE THEATERS LAST NIGHT.

Another Packed House at the Marquam Grand—Company O Still Drawing Crowded Houses—Other Attractions.

That we are becoming a city of theater goers was exemplified last night at the Marquam Grand. There was a better house than greeted the first night's production, which is rather an innovation for Portland. The rule has been here-tofore that the first night was the best in point of numbers, but last evening standing room was at a premium before the close of the first act. Of the magnificent performance nothing new can be said, and that "Shenandoah" is a great financial and artistic success requires no proof. Already a great many seats have been sold, and the play bids fair to become as popular in Portland as it was in San Francisco and New York.

"Shenandoah" again to-night. Grand matinee performance to-morrow.

NEW PARK THEATER.

"Our Heroes" again won a battle last night in capturing an audience, and the captives seemed to appreciate the efforts of their captors. The boys of Company C have every reason to feel proud of the efforts and to congratulate them-selves on the degree of success which has attended their work. The result will be more easily seen when the company's treasury receives the profits so justly earned by the members of the company.

CORDRAY'S THEATER-MUSEE.

A well filled house greeted Miss Fesie Tittel again last night in the "Hidden Hand." Mana-ger Cordray is always on the lookout for attrac-tions to please the public, and the Musee per-formance this week is in itself an entertainment worthy of notice and commendation.

NOTES.

Seats will be placed on sale to-morrow at the Marquam Grand for the production next week of "The Great Metropolis."

Arrangements have been concluded whereby "Shenandoah" will remain at the Twenty third Street theater, New York, until May 1.

Telegrams have been received from many towns within a radius of fifty miles from Port-land, from old soldiers for tickets to see "Shenan-doah" at the Marquam Grand this week.

The dates of Monday and Tuesday, March 17 and 18, are open at the Marquam Grand opera house, owing to the fact that Bob Smith Russell does not reach here until Wednesday morning. An opportunity is thus offered for the appearance of one or two of our local amateur organizations who can secure the main chance at this new house.

THE PEOPLE REJOICING.

Anacortes to Have the Best of Transportation Facilities With the Upper Sound.

ANACORTES, Wash., Feb. 28.—[Special Corre-spondence.]—Anacortes is sure to become one of the great railroad centers of the coast. At the present time, however the people place their whole dependence for communication with the upper Sound on the regular boats. Although these boats are well equipped and make what is considered in nautical circles as very good time, the people have not been slow to express their dis-satisfaction with these lines of travel, and a num-ber of the leading spirits of the place have just sent an order to San Francisco for a first-class steamer to ply regularly between Anacortes, Seat-tle and Tacoma. The new boat will be a propeller and will be one of the most elegantly fitted boats in the Sound trade. She will be built with a guar-anteed very high rate of speed and will be one of the finest steamers on the coast.

Everything is stirring here. Property is chang-ing hands daily and the plans for commodious buildings are being prepared just as fast as the architects can turn them out. A careful study of the situation here will convince any one, even the most skeptical, that this is one of the most natural sites on the Sound for the building of a city, and acting on this basis the people here are going to work in earnest to accomplish their cherished hope. Anacortes is here to stay, and the day is not far distant when this place will be the site of a great city.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

A pile-driver was hard at work yesterday and the day before, on Johnson's East Side dock, which lost most of its piling during the flood.

MR. Fred S. Miller chief clerk in the general freight office of the Union Pacific, returned yes-terday from a month's vacation, the greater por-tion of which was spent in that famous fabled country called "Away down East."

MR. B. Campbell general freight agent of the Union Pacific, has gone to San Francisco on busi-ness. He is accompanied by his wife, and will attend the meeting of the Transcontinental Asso-ciation at Hotel Coronado, San Diego, March 15.

H. Parrish, a grocer doing business at No. 111 South First street was given a check by a young man yesterday afternoon, proved to be worthless. The matter was reported to the police, who will endeavor to find the strange young man, who passed the check.

One of the prettiest sailing craft in the harbor is the schooner Bertie Minor, now lying at an East Side wharf. The schooner arrived a few days since from California with a cargo of red-wood, which is now discharged, and the vessel is once more ready for the home voyage.

Company C, which is making such an excellent showing in "Our Heroes" at the New Park thea-ter, will give a public parade this evening, follow-ing the same line of march taken by them last Monday. The war drama, "Our Heroes," in which they take a prominent part, is being played to good houses, and the boys are the re-cipients of many compliments for the creditable manner in which they enact their roles.

LOSS OF STOCK.

Rev. R. J. Laughlin, formerly of this city writ-ing from Crook, in Crook county, to a friend in this city, says, under date of February 22:

We had all hoped that the winter was over but a few days ago it began snowing again and now it looks as if we might have six weeks more of winter. Stock are dying and will die rapidly so long as this winter weather continues. The stock men around here are all completely dis-couraged. So far as I can learn I think there will be an average loss of 50 per cent of all the stock of this region, certainly one half the cattle will die.

It is tiresome to hear the newspapers giving us advice about the preparation of sufficient feed, etc. They seem to think that there is just one difficulty, and that is that the stockmen did not prepare feed. They forget that last summer was dry and that not little feed was raised, that many who have fed cannot collect their stock in these snowstorms, and if they had their stock they could not get them to the hay on account of the snow. And they don't seem to know that many who have fed have had the heaviest losses. One man just below here lost 350 sheep out of a flock of 500, and had them by the side of a hay stack all the time.

HE BLEW OUT THE GAS.

Some foolish people blow down a gas jet occa-sionally with the result of waking up the follow-ing morning and finding that they have donned angel plumage. Others by systematic "blowing" compass their death, metaphor cally speaking just as surely as the one who seeks an exit from the world's cares by the treacherous blow from the gas jet. Despite the vaporings of loud mouthed rivals the Matchless Decker Brothers Piano is far ahead of any other instrument in the market. Remember this and also that Winter & Harper, at 71 Morrison street, are sole agents.

BUILDING NOTICES.

What Is Being Done About the City.

It is a foregone conclusion that the season of 1890 will witness more building in Portland and the immediate vicinity than ever before. Even at this date go where you will and in every direc-tion there will be found buildings springing up like mushrooms. Along the Mount Tabor motor line several will be noticed, on both electric lines some will be found, while on the Vancouver motor line they are springing up rapidly and many of the residences present very comfortable, homelike appearances. Taking a trip over this line a few days ago we noticed that Woodlawn not only leads them all in this direction, but the numbers of people getting on and off there ex-ceeded all the other points. The water works were also noticed to be well under way, the re-pair shops nearly finished, and large quantities of building materials on the ground for other struc-tures. Northwick, Batty & Co. to credit the success they are meeting with for their enterprise and foresight.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children she gave them Castoria.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY, FEB. 28.

REFORMS SOUGHT BY ENGLISH RADICALS.

The popular notion that suffrage in England was made almost universal by the legislation of 1885 is a mistake. The following figures from the Financial Reform Almanac show existing discriminations in favor of certain classes and certain localities which still disfigure the English election laws, whose reform is earnestly urged by the leaders of the radical party in English politics. We quote:

In Taunton 2824 registered voters have the power of returning a member of parliament. In Huddersfield 15,838 registered voters are needed for the same purpose. Thirty-one members are allotted to thirty-one constituencies, each of which has only from 1500 to 4000 electors, and all of which together have but 72,066. On the other hand, but sixteen members are assigned to sixteen districts, each of which has from 7500 to 15,000 registered voters, and all of which have collectively a voting population of 184,802. If we turn from the enrolled voters to the populations, we encounter still more striking differences. Thus, twenty-three members are returned by twenty-three constituencies, each of which has less than 22,000 inhabitants, and which in the aggregate have but 419,000. Against these privileged districts may be set twenty-seven relatively disfranchised, for they have but twenty-eight members, although each has from 75,000 to 90,000 inhabitants, and although their total population is 2,290,433.

Eight universities are specially represented by nine members. The whole electoral body of these privileged constituencies does not exceed 35,000 people, who are already amply represented in the house of commons, half of whose members are university men. A land owner can vote not only in the place where he resides, but in other places where he may happen to own real estate. On the English and Welsh county registers alone there are upward of 221,000 non-resident voters, enough to turn the scale in one election contest out of every three. Under English law it is lawful for a candidate to spend from $1750 to $3350 in boroughs and from $2500 to $7450 in counties. This disbursement would practically debar a workingman from candidacy, even if he could afford to occupy without salary a seat in parliament. The result is that 8,000,000 of adult workmen have but eight representatives in the present house of commons, while the land owning interest has 209 representatives. The army, navy, yeomanry and militia have 123 members. There are 135 lawyers, 24 spokesmen of the liquor interest, and 33 representatives of the money interest. The office-holding interest has 91 members, and the railways 62 champions. The professions other than legal have 77 members, while the trading and manufacturing interests are represented by 136 members. The British radicals propose to abolish plural suffrage, and in all localities to exact the same volume of population for the privilege of returning a member of parliament. Workmen shall not be disfranchised by change of residence to obtain work. The property qualification is to be swept away and the suffrage granted to every adult male. The cost of parliamentary elections must be borne by the state and members of parliament be fairly paid for the devotion of their time and ability to the public service. The constitutional duration of parliament is to be reduced from seven to three years.

But according to the Financial Reform Almanac the English radicals propose also to extirpate the house of lords on the ground that while the extinction of privilege and the promotion of equality have been the objects of reform in the house of commons, the number of privileged persons have been largely increased in the house of lords. At the death of Queen Elizabeth there were only 56 peers in England. The first two Stuarts raised the number to 135. Charles II. added 41, including 15 new dukes, six of whom were his own bastards. William III. added only 16; Anne but 17; George I. but 7; George II. only 13. George III. in sixty years created 119 peers, George IV. added 57 in ten years, and William IV. added sixty in seven years, while excluding the additions of the last three years 173 peers have been created by Queen Victoria. In 1886, including the five royal princes, the twenty-six bishops, the twenty-eight representatives of the Irish peerage and the sixteen delegates of the Scotch peerage, the members of the house of lords, hereditary and representative, numbered 549. In shape of pay under various disguises these 549 privileged persons draw from the public treasury not less than $3,750,000 a year. They own collectively 15,312,000 acres of land, whose total annual rental does not fall short of $64,190,000. Including the peeresses of the United Kingdom and those peers of Scotland and Ireland who do not have seats in the house of lords, the whole number of acres owned by the privileged caste is 16,555,000, with an aggregate rental of $68,200,000. Some 1500 livings in the Church of England belong to the lay members of the house of lords, and 7155 relatives of peers were in the public pay. The English radicals in their indictment of the house of lords cite its infamous record of legislation obstructive to popular liberty and humane government as follows:

In 1847 the house of lords threw out the bill intended to promote common school education, and three years later they rejected a bill abolishing the punishment of death for stealing goods valued at five shillings. In 1825 they resisted the Catholic relief bill until civil war was imminent, and the bank of England only a few hours from stoppage. In 1832 they mutilated and held back the parliamentary reform until people threw mud at the king in the streets, withheld payment of taxes, and were on the brink of revolution. In the same year the lords refused to open the universities to dissenters. For a quarter of a century following 1833 they denied the civil and political rights which the common tried to confer upon the Jews. In 1835 Ireland had a population of eight millions, yet the voters numbered but 60,000. The lords refused reform, and prevented it for many years afterward. As late as 1839 they insisted on retaining the death penalty for stealing a sheep. In 1845 they refused compensation for tenants' improvements in Ireland, and persisted in their refusal for thirty-six years. In 1860 Mr. Gladstone took taxes off paper with the aim of making a cheap press. The lords threw the bill out. In the same year they refused education to miners' children, and for twelve years these unfortunates were left in darkness. In 1871 the lords rejected the bill abolishing purchase in the army. Four times between 1873 and 1879 they refused to mend the social laws. In 1888 they threw out the Sunday closing bill, and maintained trap pigeon shooting. Finally, in 1884, the lords refused the franchise to 2,000,000 county householders until cowed by the attitude of the country.

These English radicals will never rest content until history repeats itself by obliteration of the house of lords, which was done by resolution of the house of commons February 6, 1649.

Cardinal Manning speaks of the efforts being made in the United States, and to a more limited extent in England, for the amelioration of the condition of workingwomen as "a crusade against every one who in any way overworks, underpays or ill treats women," and gives such crusade his warm indorsement. The position of the venerable cardinal on this question is one that is commended alike by justice and humanity, but a full interpretation of his words would compel a softening of the view of the Catholic church upon the subject of divorce. No small proportion of the women who are "overworked and ill treated" are wives of ignorant, debased men, who regard them merely as creatures necessary to their own comfort and convenience, and who would scout as the whim of the modern visionary the idea of justice as applied to women. A "crusade" against such men looking to measures that would compel them to change their views regarding woman's position in the home, not to mention her place in the world, would be as hopeless as an attempt to induce Cardinal Manning to enlarge his view of woman's sphere sufficiently to cause him to advocate her equality with man in the political world. In extreme cases of "ill treatment," which is a mild term for the cruelties often practiced upon the most abject and hopeless class of women workers on earth, the wives of debased and drunken men, divorce is a necessary prelude to any practical measure looking to their relief. Humane therefore as is the opinion expressed by Cardinal Manning in this instance, it is inconsistent with the iron creed of his church, that utterly refuses to make any exception in favor of the release from the oppression that is often worse than any which an employer can inflict upon the tired toilers in his factories of a woman who is a wife.

AN INFAMOUS BUSINESS.

Astoria papers are doing all in their power to aid the crimps and facilitate their work. The like policy seems to be approved by a good many of the people of Astoria. The Astoria Pioneer of Thursday in gleeful strain recites the following:

Captain Dagwell, of the British ship Oberon, is now a firm believer in the modern adage that while in port the skipper proposes but the sailor disposes. It was Captain Dagwell's intention to sail for Mersie England, yesterday, but his plans were interfered with by reason of the fact that he shipped five men, necessary to complete his crew, in Portland. The quintette of sailors were brought down on the steamer R. R. Thompson yesterday morning, in charge of a big man whose mission was to see that they got on board the Oberon. The work of the big man was facilitated by the captain of the Thompson who kindly ran alongside the ship. But the big man reckoned wrongly.

On board the Thompson was a veritable sea lawyer in the person of that distinguished man James Turk, and he lost no time in reciting to the five sailors the recent decision of the federal courts, which grants immunity to all sailors who desert from British vessels in American ports. The sailors decided in short order that they would not go on the Oberon, and were consequently landed with the other passengers of the Thompson. This is the reason that the Oberon did not cross the bar yesterday. Captain Dagwell says he will complete his crew here, and in all probability will get to sea to-day.

If we take the Astoria papers for it, that community has ranged itself under the banner of Jim Turk, to follow crimping as a business and profession; that is, to induce sailors to desert or to steal them away, to make ships pay roundly to get the men back or to obtain others to fill their places. Of course the object is a share of the profits of this delectable business. Hence Jim Turk is held out to the world at Astoria's most useful citizen and representative man. The newspapers of the town are full of his praises and exploits. Yet for the name of Astoria it might be hoped that there is a body of citizens at that place who do not approve this business of stealing sailors or inducing them to desert for the purpose of robbing ships or masters and the sailors too. That it is infamous as a business needs no argument; that it is short-sighted as policy should be apparent even to avarice and dishonesty. It is entirely conceivable that a gang of scoundrelly men should go into this business for what could be made out of it, but it is quite inconceivable that an entire community, situated at a point where commerce is necessary to its life, should suppose that it could have anything to gain by preying on commerce under a system of piracy which can have no other effect than that of driving commerce away. But if the people of Astoria do not wish to see these crimps and robbers ply their trade and drive commerce away from the Columbia river they would do well to aid in suppressing them. If an argument for honesty, for its own sake, can not prevail, the argument for interest ought not to be disregarded.

JUSTICE VS. PITY.

The wretched mother of a condemned murderer, Charles Pennington, of Baker county, is laboring to secure signatures to a petition to Governor Pennoyer asking commutation of his impending sentence of death. The criminal is young, but the murder of an unarmed man as the result of a trifling altercation can scarcely be excused as a youthful folly. The miserable mother is an object of the most genuine pity. So also is the wife of the murdered man, but inasmuch as the murderer was condemned for the crime that he committed, and not because of pity for those bereft by the death of his victim, it can scarcely be expected that he will be pardoned through sympathy for his mother.

The law that decrees the death penalty for murder was not enacted in the interest of sympathy, but of stern justice and for the protection of human life. Its sternness is only properly relaxed by certain palliating circumstances, chief of which is that of self-defense. If sympathy were allowed to prevail against it, much time and expense in conducting trials for murder might be saved by the abrogation of the law, since there is no creature so friendless or so sodden in crime but sympathy could be aroused to make an earnest plea in his behalf, as he cowered in his cell, awaiting the order for his execution.

The true friends of a mother, situated as is Mrs. Pennington, should counsel her to forego her purpose of working to secure her son's pardon, since it can scarcely result in anything but added suffering to herself. His case is beyond the jurisdiction of pity, so far as that element may be considered a power looking to his release, while the most that it can do for the poor old mother is to regard her tenderly, and regret with her the action that made her son a criminal.

The silliest of all the silly proceedings ever set on foot by a legislative body is the solemn investigation by a committee of the United States senate of reporters and employes suspected of revealing the secrets of executive sessions. Everybody in Washington knows how executive business leaks out. The senators themselves tell their newspaper friends as soon as the doors are open. There is no reason why they shouldn't. The nominal secrecy of executive sessions is a stupid relic of monarchical institutions which has no fitness in our government, and which every senator knows ought to be abolished. The only reason it is not abolished is that every senator would like the chance to keep secret certain business in which he is personally interested. But so long as every senator feels at liberty to tell all the secrets he is not personally interested in, the newspapers have no difficulty in publishing the whole proceedings. The sensible thing would be to abolish the rule altogether. The most silly thing possible is to call employes to account for infractions of it, which everybody knows are committed by the senators themselves.

John Jacob Astor, whose body was consigned to the tomb a few days ago, after making bequests to charitable institutions aggregating nearly a million dollars, left his son the richest man in the world. The Astors, from father to son for several generations have proved themselves careful and shrewd financiers, and at the same time benevolent, though not especially philanthropic, men. Mrs. Astor, wife of the man who died a few days ago, was a practical philanthropist, and as such was a familiar presence for years in the crowded tenement districts of New York city. Her charities were not more abundantly than judiciously bestowed, and at her death, which occurred a year or two ago, the self-respecting poor of a great city were among her most sincere mourners. Her husband's benefactions were more ostentatious, the Astor library receiving $450,000, the largest single bequest made in his will, while two hospitals each received $100,000. The possibilities of good which such bequests suggest are far reaching, and their intent is sufficient to stamp the giver as "a man who loved his fellowmen."

All doubt as to the basis of the treasury notes intended by the senate bill to be issued upon the $4,500,000 of silver bullion, for whose purchase it provides, is removed by the enthusiastic declaration of the silver men in favor of the measure. The notes are undoubtedly to be issued in the ratio of one dollar to 371¼ grains of pure silver—the amount in the standard dollar. This gives the new treasury notes just the value of the present silver certificates, or about 70 cents on the dollar, and doubles their monthly issue. It is an objectionable bill. It is framed solely in the interest of the silver mine owners. It creates a market for their product at the expense of the people of the United States, who will finally suffer from the inevitable depreciation of these government notes put in circulation at a false valuation. If the senate bill becomes a law, it will simply hasten the establishment of a sing e silver standard in America, the expulsion of gold from the country and the scaling down of money values 50 per cent.

Tuesday night, February 25, was the coldest of the year in La Grande, the mercury dropping to 12½ degrees below zero. This temperature means much more to stock men than a like record would have meant in December, or even a month ago when animals were much more vigorous and feed more abundant. A continuance of snow on the Eastern Oregon and Washington ranges for ten days—a possibility that is gravely foreshadowed—will, it is said, clear many ranches of the last hoof of live stock. A disaster of this kind means something to consumers, as well as to producers, and if realized will send the price of beef and mutton in our markets even beyond the present high figure. On this view our citizens may well join those whose financial interests are involved in the shivering herds, and the flocks huddled together in mute misery on the great stock ranches of the state in the earnest wish for the swift coming of the delivering "Chinook."

It is seldom that anything more gruesome has been brought to the attention of the public than that furnished by the account of the funeral of Rev. T. A. Horne, of Brooklyn, which took place at his late residence last Sunday, the discourse being his own words, delivered in his own voice, through the agency of a phonograph. The uncanny sound caused many women to faint, and when at a certain pathetic point in the sermon sobs, as of a strong man weeping, came from the instrument, the scene was terribly realistic and caused a shudder of horror to run through the assemblage. It has long been considered that there can be nothing new in posthumous eulogy, but there is no telling what fresh and startling features such oratory will take on if men are encouraged to use the phonograph as a means of self-adulation after death.

Details of the murder of Mrs. Scott in Yamhill county are so revolting to every sense of humanity that we would fain believe the crime the work of a maniac. Such a conclusion is, however, rendered impossible by the clumsy attempt of the murderer to palm off the deed as an act of self-murder. A lunatic would have to be in a hopeless state, indeed, to make such a blundering combination of mopstick and shotgun as was made in fixing Mrs. Scott's bed, while her gory corpse lay upon the porch. The circumstances, as detailed by our correspondent, are such as must make every humane person in the state hope, for humanity's sake, that the perpetrator may be made to suffer the full penalty of the law for his most abhorrent crime.

The indications that Idaho and Wyoming will have votes in the next electoral college are exceedingly probable. Every great Northwestern state admitted into the Union weakens the boasted dominion of the "Solid South," and gives that section additional opportunity to recover its temper and fall into line as a powerful industrial and consistent political factor of a great republic, while the North and West join hands in keeping things level at Washington. It is interesting in this connection to see how the natural course of events disposes of questions, in the vain discussion of which statesmen have grown gray and politicians waxed fierce.

The Blair educational bill was always an infernal nuisance, but it is more mischievous than ever this winter, since it blocks the way of really useful and necessary legislation in the senate. It is a pity that the senator from New Hampshire cannot be induced to take a journey around the world with George Francis Train. The senate might find it possible to do some business before his return. Blair's various whimsies waste more of the senate's time than the childish quarrels of his colleague, Chandler, with the Southern brigadiers.

Several communications urging the reelection of the Hon. D. P. Thompson to the school directorship have appeared in THE OREGONIAN. From Mr. Thompson himself there has been no public acknowledgment or response; yet it is understood that if reelected he would again accept and serve. A man who would render the public schools of the city better service could not be selected for the position.

Railroad building in the United States has come to be regarded as a pretty faithful index of general prosperity. The Engineering News estimates that the mileage constructed in 1890 will be larger than in any year since 1887. This is likely to increase the demand for iron, and bring American prices up to the British standard.

The improvement in the condition of Hide Abraham Lincoln, reported from London last night, permits new hope that he will be able to bear an honored name to an useful manhood.

PERSONS WORTH KNOWING ABOUT.

Richard Stahl, the composer, has been married three times, divorced twice, and sued for alimony once. He is at work on a wedding march.

Susan B. Anthony has on her list the names of twenty senators whom she regards favorable to the cause of woman suffrage. The Illinois senators are among the number.

Thomas A. Edison is at Charlotte, N. C., looking over the mines in the vicinity of that city. He thinks of purchasing a mine there and trying his new process on the ores.

Major Joseph F. Dennison, the newly elected commander of the Grand Army, department of Pennsylvania, has a continuous military record of five years and eight months in the civil war.

The first woman in the United States to become the president of a railroad is Mrs. Charles D. Haines, who has just been elected president of the Medina Valley Railroad Company in Texas.

Augustus G. Heaton, the Washington artist, who painted the notable full length portrait of Amelia Lives (now Mrs. Chanler), has been in town during the last few days visiting old friends of the Lives girls. He speaks highly of Washington as a rising art center.

John B. Reynhart, who succeeds Judge Kelley in congress, is said to be a good politician, though not a convivial one. He does not smoke, chew, swear, gamble, drink, nor ride on a railroad pass. His chief dissipation is in athletic sports, and he spends his summers in a delightful Cape May villa.

Senator Ingalls is preparing another speech which it is predicted will make a sensation when it is delivered in the senate. Since this last speech the senator has received a large number of little testimonials from the South, and it is his purpose to place these on public view. Among the exhibits will be a cartridge and a letter from an indignant Southerner, who explains: "The next bullet you receive from me will be from a rifle."

Mr. Capel, who made a considerable stir in this country a few years ago, has been living in retirement on a California ranch for four years. It is said that he has been engaged in literary work.

John H. Inman, the New York millionaire, is a healthy looking man of commercial manner, with a bald, broad forehead and a prominent goatee. He is the leader of the Southern colony in New York; owns acres by the thousand in Alabama and Georgia, and is a keen eyed director of companies too numerous to mention.

Personal Mention.

George Wingate, a prominent Astorian, is registered at the St. Charles.

Editor Hendricks, of the Salem Statesman, after spending several days in Portland on business, returned to Salem yesterday.

S. F. Wyatt of Benton county, accompanied by his young bride, is spending a few days in the city. They are staying at the St. Charles.

Frank Reed, one of the oldest members of Engine Company No. 2, has resigned his position in the department to engage in stock raising in the Okanogan district. Reed will be a great loss to the department, as he has always been one of the most efficient men in the service, but his old associates unite in wishing him all possible success in his new venture. Joe Cunningham will be his successor.

SPIRIT OF THE NORTHWEST PRESS.

WHERE DID YOU GET OUT?

East Oregonian: The charges of the Salem Journal against the management of the insane asylum were investigated by the Marion county grand jury, and are the subject of a long report by that body. The only criticism they make is that perhaps the institution is run a little too economically, and the food is not quite fine enough for the inmates. As to economy, it is a good fault; and as to the food, we don't believe there is the least foundation for any complaint. We have more than once closely examined the kinds and quality of food furnished—though not within a year past—and always found it excellent and in every respect sufficient.

AN EYE ON THE COW COUNTIES.

Times-Mountaineer: The political conventions this year do not want to turn a cold shoulder towards Eastern Oregon. In 1888 the counties east of the Cascade mountains rolled up good republican majorities, and will do the same this year if they are not trampled in the mud by ring politicians. The people in this portion of the state desire to be recognized, and if this is not fairly and honestly done, we advise our Willamette brethren to keep an eye on the cow counties next June.

CALIFORNIA FALLING BEHIND.

Spokane Falls Review: California, with all her wealth of flowers and fruits and her semi-tropical climate, is falling behind Washington and Oregon in the matter of immigration. The high rates of fare to the former state have much to do with the change, but it is nevertheless a fact that people accustomed to the weather of the temperate zone soon tire of the enervating effects of the California climate.

HOW TO SECURE PARDON.

Vancouver Independent: The members of the legislature occupied the time Monday in telling each other how little the people thought of their work so far. We are glad they begin to realize the facts in the case. If they will now quit making future sessions and congressmen, and pass needed laws for the benefit of the people, they may yet be forgiven for the early frivolities of the session.

THE TIDE LANDS NEEDED.

Seattle Post-Intelligencer: The tide lands adjacent to Seattle and other cities are needed badly at this time. Important enterprises are waiting upon the settlement of title to them, and must wait till some result is reached. Postponement of this settlement will involve postponement of things needed for the general good of the country.

NEITHER FORGIVEN NOR FORGOTTEN.

Astoria Coast-Guard: Some of the mail which left San Francisco on the revenue cutter Richard Rush last month, arrived in Astoria yesterday. We can not forget Tuttle so long as we continue to receive these evidences of his imbecility.

APPROVED BY ALL.

Weston Leader: The recommendation of the assessors in their convention, that the mortgage tax, usury laws and the taking out of indebtedness be repealed, is meeting with the general approval of the state press and people.

GENERAL RUGER'S STATEMENT.

The Department Commander Talks About the Famous Wild Case.

General Thomas N. Ruger, commander of the department of Dakota, was interviewed at St. Paul upon the receipt of President Harrison's order, by a reporter of the Globe, and made the following statement:

I have nothing to say about the president's order; no criticism upon it could, of course, be made by me. Courts martial are appointed by an order issued from the department. They are changed by order from time to time, as may be considered necessary by the department commander. They are appointed when no specific case is to be tried, and any case coming up is referred to the court then existing. At the time the court referred to was appointed, the charges against the private had not been made. The accused has the right to object to any one sitting upon the court, and no objection was made in this instance. The objection is passed upon by the court itself. The judge advocate is nothing more than a prosecutor, and has no vote in the court. It is true, as stated in the dispatch, that Lieutenant Steele, having brought the charges, should not have been judge advocate. The circumstance escaped notice, as will sometimes happen. The time of the general is too much occupied to attend to all minor routine, and much of it is left to the aids. Wild was tried at Fort Yates. There is no doubt that an offense had been committed. He would not have refused to mend the mess tent if ordered to do so, but as it happened it was an officer's quarters. A refusal to obey duly cannot be condoned, for army discipline must be maintained. Thus it is that what to a civilian would seem an excessive sentence is an ordinary penalty. Many of these cases, after sentence is imposed, are put down for future consideration, and the offender is pardoned after serving a portion of his sentence. Wild's case was to come up later for consideration. The officer lost his temper and struck the man, which was not known at the time the charges were made, and only developed at the court martial. That sentence was a pretty strong one, and I say, Lieutenant Steele should not have been judge advocate in Private Wild's case, but it escaped notice. Had your reporter come to me before he printed the story of several days ago, I would have corrected many misstatements which have gone broadcast, but he went ahead and then called on me.

POLITICS AND PRICES

MARION COUNTY, Or., Feb. 25.—[TO THE EDITOR.]—In your paper of January 24, 1890 there appears a letter from Mr. John Minto, of Salem, in regard to Cleveland and the proposed legislation, and how it affected Crook county and its products, and that the county of Crook is poorer today by two hundred and fifty or eight hundred thousands of dollars than it was before the agitation of the proposed legislation; that their sheep depreciated 62½ cents per head. But they have their sheep yet, if they have not started to death; their wool sold for 5 or 6 cents per pound less than it would if it had not been effected by this myth or political agitation.

It is easy to understand how manufacturers and speculators can make capital out of such proposed legislation, or, in other words, use it as capital in buying their supplies. Mr. Minto did not confine himself to actual transactions, as a business house would, but spoke of the whole county's holdings and products. The price of the products of Crook or Marion or any other county is governed by the supply and the demand of that product in the world at large within reach of the manufacturing centers. If, for instance, Mr. Minto wants to sell his wool in Salem he takes up his OREGONIAN, in the wool season, and in reading over the quotations of Portland, San Francisco, Chicago or Boston, he finds that it is worth so much in each place, therefore, so much in Salem.

Last of all but not least, it quotes a London or Liverpool wool sales letter to some Boston firm, and that prices of certain grades sold so much so, also that such and such grades were in demand, that Americans were purchasers of so many bales to date which are the reasons for wool being worth so much in Boston, New York or Philadelphia, and is worth so much in Portland, Salem or San Francisco, because that is all you can get in Boston with freight and commissions off.

Wool is now going from San Francisco to New York by way of Cape Horn at cheap rates where it can take about one dollar and sixty or seventy cents per ton rates to England if Boston prices are not satisfactory.

Mr. Minto of Washington has been sending Oregon and Washington hops to England by the train loads because there was a demand in that market for that grade of the product. All the proposed legislation of the political parties does not seem to affect the hop business here or abroad. Supply and demand is all that seems to cause it to fluctuate.

Political parties always use all the weapons within their reach in order to carry their point to the utmost, and the producing classes in all cases, Middlemen lose nothing by these transactions, and the manufacturer is gainer, but this is not the legitimate or actual values this would be quoted at in times of political quiet.

There are only two factors that govern the price of all things, that is the supply and demand. There are other secondary causes, as agitation, etc., but when such things occur it is to legitimate interest, and the markets or state of things will assert themselves back to a legitimate or normal state or basis after these things have subsided. The agitation has surely subsided by this time and Eastern Oregon wools are only quoted at 10 to 15 cents per pound, and this is surely a legitimate market and the only thing it can be attributed to is that that grade is pretty well supplied to the markets.

Mr. Minto has tacitly implied that politics is getting to be one of the greatest industries of the age, paramount to agriculture or any manual following of man, paramount to industrious morals and to business integrity, etc. When any country is just on the eve of any great political strife or election commercial business is stagnated and prices are restricted. It is not confined to Oregon or the United States alone.

The Swell and Bohemian Artists.

Eugene Field.

Alma Tadema is perhaps the most swell artist in London; he lives in princely style, is much courted and is quite chummy with the Prince of Wales. He is not so very prepossessing in his appearance; in fact, he looks quite like the prosperous tradesman. But he is exceedingly swell, and is correspondingly proud of his social position. They tell a good story about Tadema's experience with Hiliu Vedder. The latter is a thoroughly rough and tumble character, careless as to dress, indifferent to usages and traditions, wholly insensible to the nice requirements of society—a bohemian to a degree. At once Lima he visited the Tademar, and the morning after his arrival at their house Mrs. Tadema was awakened by a rude knocking at her chamber door; much alarmed, she aroused her husband, who demanded in fierce tones what was wanted. It was Vedder who was at the door, and he answered in a voice loud enough to be heard all through the house: "I say, Tadema, old chap, where do you keep the scissors to trim your curls with?" You can perhaps fancy the horror that this blatant inquiry produced upon the exquisite, the finical Tadema—the boon companion to the Prince of Wales.

Famous Lovers of Cats.

New York Herald.

The famous Dr. Johnson, of England, seemed to think as much of his cat as of a human friend. Cardinal Wolsey, of England, used to receive the nobles of the land with his favorite cat perched on the arm of his chair or at the back of his throne. The greatest statesman of France, Richelieu, once excused himself from rising to receive a foreign ambassador because his favorite cat and her kittens were lying on his robes. Petrarch, the great Italian poet, had his favorite cat embalmed when she died. Among the Egyptians cats were esteemed as sacred animals. Louis XIII. of France was a staunch friend of cats, and at an early age interceded on their behalf on St. John's day. Mohammed possessed a cat named Muezza. Once, when the pet was lying asleep upon the sleeve of his gown, he had the part cut away rather than disturb kitty's dreams. Chateaubriand possessed a cat called by the euphonic name of Micetto, a gift from the pope. He studied the habits of the cat and imagined that his character partook of many quantities peculiar to his pet. After leading his regiment at Astz the French hero, Gen. Hondaille, hurried from the field to rescue his cats and returned with them to his troops.

Uninteresting Plunger Benzon.

London Truth.

Is not pity a little thrown away on Mr. Benzon? This most uninteresting gentleman came into a fortune of £250,000. He spent it not wisely. Then he put his name to a book recounting how he had got rid of it, of which it appears that he did not write one line himself. Being a bankrupt he showed his independence of mind by betaking himself to Monte Carlo instead of condescending to attend the official meetings of his creditors. At Monte Carlo he gambled, and according to his own showing provided himself with the means to do so by forging checks. We are now asked to commiserate him because he is kept in prison, is only allowed to order one meal per diem in excess of the prison food, and weeps copiously. To my thinking, Benzon deserves a lengthened term of imprisonment far, very far, more than some poor hungry wretch who is sent to pick oakum for stealing a loaf of bread.

The President's Room.

Washington Star.

"You would be surprised," said the guard in the president's room at the capitol, "to know how often visitors come in here, and after looking about at the general effect of the furnishing and decorations, which, you observe, are red, ask: 'And where can we find the blue room we have heard so much about?' They have mixed up the capitol and the White House in their minds, of course. Constantly people inquire of me where the president's living quarters are—whether it is at this end of the capitol or at the other." "Are people permitted to come into the president's room, sit down and stay as long as they like?" asked the reporter. "Most emphatically not. The room would be used as a sort of a civil hotel in three days if we permitted anything of that sort. The time allowed people to stay is five minutes. If visitors overstay that limit they are politely requested to leave."

Civilization and Christianity.

Garrick Mallery, in the December Forum: "The most judicious remarks ever made by missionaries were those of the Rev. Messrs. D. Lee and J. H. Frost, who after ten years in Oregon of what has been considered successful work, announced their abandonment of their former tenet that if the heathen were converted to Christianity civilization followed of course. They confessed that civilization must begin before Christianity could even be understood. Acute travelers throughout the world have perceived the same fact; and it is not a too violent simile to say that Christianity, belonging to the plane of civilization and to that only, sits on a savage or barbarian as a bishop's mitre would on a naked Hottentot."

Logic.

Toledo Blade.

Miss Parkwood—Do you know, sir I could sue you for breach of promise?

Mr. Finlay Place—Oh, I guess not.

"Why, sir, did you not ask me to marry you?"

"Yes."

"And I consented?"

"Yes."

"Well, sir?"

"Well, I didn't promise, did I? You were the one that did that. I presume I have the right to ask you a civil question, have I not, without running the risk of being dragged into court?"

Another Kind.

Lawrence American.

"How did Blowhard lose his eyes?"

"He had an encounter with an Indian, I believe."

"Why, I never knew that he had been further West than Buffalo!"

"He hasn't. He ran into a cigar sign when he was coming home from the club one night."

Looking Ahead.

America.

Alonzo—Now, dearest, I think I will get the tickets for our wedding trip to-day. You know there are only three days before the wedding, and I shall have so much to do. What route would you prefer to take?

Wilhelmina (with a bashful blush)—Any one, dearest, so long as it has plenty of runne-s.

THE RUSSIAN MARCH.

Purpose of the Railroad Across Siberia's Frozen Soil.

THE ALARM OF THE MONGOL

Probably as Much a Military as a Commercial Move, Soldiers Say.

PUGET SOUND ROUTE TO CHINA

The Pacific Mail Steamship Co. Contemplates Running Two Vessels Between Tacoma and the Orient—Villard's New Scheme.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—That the Russian government has ordered work to be begun on the great overland railway through Siberia to parallel the Chinese frontier and virtually bring China within range of her armaments, is full of significance. Practically the whole world is watching Russia's movements in Asia—England, for fear of India; Germany, because of her Asiatic ambitions, and the United States, because of its eminence to the commerce and life of the great Western shore.

Speaking of the railroad a member of the Chinese legation at Washington is reported as saying: "Any railroads constructed by the Russian government which may touch or parallel our frontier at strategic points will be met by equal railroad facilities on our side, so as to put the Chinese empire on an equal footing, in so far as concentration of military forces or protection of her territory might be necessary. Our government has been considering, for the past two or three years the advisability of constructing a system of railroads to unite the various provinces of the empire for commercial purposes as well as for possible concentration of military armaments. It is understood such a plan has finally met with favor, and it is not improbable that at an early day our government will begin to carry such a plan into execution, but no foreign companies or syndicates would be permitted to run railroads through Chinese territory. That would be utterly out of the question."

General Sherman says: "Russia knows what she is about in these railway matters. I have no doubt in time, ten or twenty years, if not much sooner, Russia will have a railway along her Southern boundaries from the Volga to the sea of Okhotsk. Such railway activity in Asia is not military in its origin. The roads are mainly commercial; as we build our railroads and as Canada build railroads to reach the Pacific, so Russia's building to reach her Pacific border.

Major-General Crook, when seen at Chicago, said: "It is easy to see and appreciate the value of railroads constructed in a southeasterly direction from the two great seas, the Black and the Caspian. In the first place, there is India; in the second, China; in the third, Turkey in Asia. As the contemplated railways are to be built through a country in a state of development, a region that could not possibly support railroads as they are supported in this country, it is reasonable to presume that they are to be built for military purposes alone."

An eminent diplomatist at Washington said this act on the part of Russia would force England to form a defensive alliance with China, or force Russia to make China part of her own territory.

SAN FRANCISCO Feb. 27.—[Special Telegram.]—The Chronicle says: It is thought the beginning of work on the trans-Siberian railroad will act as an incentive to private capital or to the United States or Canadian governments to build a road from Vancouver, Seattle, Tacoma or Portland, with the Russian system, the last remaining part of the railway to complete the girdle of the earth.

PUGET SOUND TO CHINA.

Pacific Mail Steamers to Be Put on the Short Route to the Orient.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 27.—[Special, Telegram.]—A Pioneer Press New York special says: "A meeting of Pacific Mail directors was held to-day. The special matter of interest before them was the consideration of a proposition to establish a new steamship line, to run in connection with the Northern Pacific railroad from Tacoma to China. The proposition was favorably received, but definite action was postponed until further details can be arranged. The subject has been under consideration by the authorities of the Northern Pacific and Pacific Mail for some time, but was not disclosed until to-day. The directors have left the matter in the hands of George Gould for further negotiations with railroad people and with the city of Tacoma as to terminal facilities, docks and wate r frontage. "It is proposed," said Gould, who confirmed the foregoing statement, "to start with two first-class steamers and increase the number if business warrants." Gould further declared that he knew of no reason for the decline in stock yesterday, and he only knew the company was in good condition, and that neither he nor his father had sold a share of stock, but on the contrary, had increased their holdings. It has been rumored that the cause of the decline was a dissension among the directors over some question of policy, and that some insiders had sold their stock.

C. P. Huntington, of the Central and Southern Pacific, and Sidney Dillon, of the Union Pacific, who are also directors in the Pacific mail, were at the meeting. It remains to be seen whether they will make any objection to a plan which will give points in China to their railroads. It is officially stated that this deal with the Pacific Mail is only one of the various important projects which Henry Villard has in view for the development and enrichment of the Northern Pacific.

RAILROAD BUILDING IN 1890.

More Than Five Thousand Miles in Process of Construction.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The Engineering News this week says: The work of railway extension the coming season promises more activity than any season since 1887. In the United States there are 5038 miles in process of construction, 7014 miles surveyed and 2831 miles projected, making a total of 14,910 miles. In Canada the figures are: In construction 814, surveys, 438, projected 766, total 2018. The principal enterprises under way are in the South and Southwest, on the coal roads of Pennsylvania and Ohio, and in Montana and Washington. Almost all the lines in prospect are rather short and generally furthered to develop comparatively local interests. There is practically no paralleling.

THE DAY'S LEGAL ROUND UP.

J. B. Thompson Not in Contempt When He Refused to Be Sworn.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union Incorporated—Keyes Forfeits a $500 Bond—Decision to Be Announced.

In the United States circuit court yesterday Judge Sabin, in the case of Steel vs. Rathbun, rendered a decision in regard to the proceedings against Mr. J. B. Thompson for contempt. Mr. Thompson, as secretary of the company, had in his possession some stock belonging to Rathbun, which Steel placed a garnishment upon. Mr. Thompson, when summoned before George H. Durham, master in chancery, refused to be sworn or to testify in regard to the property in his possession, and was accordingly cited to appear and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt. The reasons for his refusal to be sworn or examined were that plaintiff had failed to comply with the law in not having served or filed any allegations, and because the court could not, at this time, compel him to submit to an oral examination.

Judge Sabin held that Mr. Thompson was right in his refusal to answer or be sworn for the reason above stated, and that the plaintiff could not compel him to answer orally at this time; also that no such proceeding as that sought to be enforced by plaintiff was known to the law. Therefore he held that there had been no contempt, and dismissed the order.

State and County Courts.

Mrs. A. R. Riggs, Mrs. Henriette Brown and Mrs. R. N. Robb, whose names have been prominently identified with the temperance movement for several years past, yesterday took a new step by incorporating the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The object of the corporation is to educate public sentiment in this state up to the standard of total abstinence, to overthrow the drink traffic, to enlist the women of this city in systematic temperance work and to rescue unfortunate women and girls. The value of the property now in possession of the corporation is $2,000, but they hope to acquire more. The objects of these devoted women are somewhat numerous, and in the language of an immortal philosopher, "they have a large job on their hands."

CASES SET FOR TRIAL.

In the state circuit court cases have been set for trial as follows:

Kantner vs. Gardner, Feb. 28; Wong Ling Lung vs. Ritchen et al.; Davies vs. Steel, March 3; Schmidt & Label Co. vs. Liebe, 4; Walker vs. Rivers et al., 5; Ritters vs. Peterson, 5; State vs. Buckley, 6; Grubsinger vs. Gruesinger, 6; Tumwater vs. Rhoweman, 6; Bower vs. O. & W. R. R., 7; Reith vs. State vs. Daniels, 7; Handler vs. Handler, 8; Westaway vs. Westaway, 8; Mitchaffey vs. Markle, 10; Holder vs. Clark, 10; Steel vs. Col. Ins. Co., 11; McIntyre vs. Garrard, 11; State vs. Holder, (No. 2), 11; State ex rel. Ball vs. Middleton, 12; State vs. Holder, (No. 1), 12; Feiss vs. Buxton, 13; Olsen vs. Pope et al., 13; Doeneke vs. P. C. Mfg. Co., 14; State vs. Higley, 14; Singer Mfg. Co. vs. O., R. & S. Mfg. Co., 17; Moakler vs. P. & W. V. Ry. Co., 17; F. Cracker Co. vs. Q. G. Bak Co., 18; Ainslie vs. Fairchild, 18; Steel vs. Lewis, 19; Ritter vs. Peterson, 19; Shepard vs. Nelson, 20; State vs. Wallace, 20; Brigham vs. Enas, 21; First Natl. Bank of P. vs. Ludwig & Kent, 24; Zimmerman vs. Fish, 25; Miller vs. Bailey, 26.

MOTIONS SET FOR HEARING.

The following motions have been set for hearing:

Noon & Co. vs. P. & W. V. Ry. Co.; demurrer to complaint, March 1.

Tregakis vs. McMillan; demurrer to complaint, March 1.

Ralston vs. P. & W. V. Ry. Co.; motion for a new trial, March 1.

Burke vs. Sloop; demurrer to complaint, March 3.

Mitchell & Tanner vs. Holland et al.; motion to strike out parts of complaint by defendant Annie F. Holland, March 3.

Hanlon vs. Pattison; motion to strike out parts of plaintiff's reply, March 3.

KEYES DID NOT SHOW UP.

When the case of Walter Keyes, indicted on the 18th of last October for maintaining a lottery, was called in Judge Stearns's court yesterday morning there was no response. The defendant was away, and his representatives or attorneys, if he had any, were not there. No other course being left open to the district attorney, he asked that the defendant's bond of $500 be forfeited. The court acquiesced and made the order, and the defendant's sureties, his wife, Mary Keyes, and F. M. Bennett, will have to foot the bill.

LATITUDE GIVEN A TRUSTEE.

In the suit brought against H. C. Stratton to compel him to give a general warranty deed to lots which he held in trust as cashier of the Portland Savings-bank, Judge Shattuck decided that a person acting as trustee could not be obliged to give a general warranty deed, but he further held that the question would have to be raised by answer, as a demurrer would not reach it.

LARGE HARDWARE CONCERN.

John R. Foster and David Robertson filed articles of incorporation yesterday incorporating the Foster & Robertson Company, the object of the company being to manufacture and deal in all kinds of hardware. The capital stock of the corporation is fixed at $400,000, divided into 400,000 shares of the value of $1 each.

A QUARTETTE OF "WOULD-BES."

William Wainwright, a subject of her majesty Queen Victoria; Antone Dicico and Antone Graceo, subjects of King Humbert of Italy, and Anton Anderson, a subject of King Oscar of Norway and Sweden, yesterday filed declarations of intention to become citizens of the United States with the clerk of the county court.

CASES TO BE DECIDED TO-DAY.

Judge Stearns will render decisions this morning in the following cases: W. S. Chapman et al., vs. W. H. Foster et. al, on demurrer; J. M. Stott vs. James Feaney et al., on demurrer; Della Hall vs. J. V. Hall.

CUPID'S CONQUEST.

Harry R. Griffith and Annie Oxman were given the necessary permit by the clerk of the county court yesterday which will enable them to join in the holy bonds of wedlock.

The Municipal Courts.

It has been unusually quiet in the city courts during the past two weeks, and some days the judicial mills are at a standstill. Justice Tuttle gets a criminal case occasionally, and Justice Biles is principally occupied with a few unimportant civil cases. In fact, the attaches of the latter court have found the time hanging so heavily on their hands that they yesterday undertook to solve the muchly discussed problem, whether the hen that lays the egg, or the one that hatches it, is the mother of the chicken. The case was tabled under advisement.

The police court alone grinds away every day, as there are always at least a few drunks in the tolls. Yesterday Judge Tanner disposed of the following cases:

P. V. Anderson and James Kennedy, drunk, were sent below for ten days each, and James Leahy and John Smith, who appeared on the same charge, got off with $5 fines. Low Tong, Lin Chin and On Shou, three disciples of the great Confucius, as their names would indicate, forfeited $5 each for wheeling hands on the sidewalk. A few other offenders were arraigned, but as the charges were not substantiated, they were discharged.

HARVEY AND ORVILLER ARE FREE MEN.

The Governor Exercises Executive Clemency by Remitting Their Fines.

Governor Pennoyer yesterday exercised executive clemency in behalf of William Harvey and John Orviller, both of Powell's valley, who were fined $200 each on the 17th of January for selling liquor without a license. Being unable to raise the money, the men were sent to the county jail to serve out their fines.

They had yet sixty days to serve, but the governor remitted their fines, $120 in each case, and they were yesterday set at liberty. It is very seldom that the governor exercises the pardoning prerogative, as he does not believe in interfering with the course of justice as directed by the courts, unless there are particular reasons, and even then only in extreme cases. In showing clemency to Harvey, he was prompted entirely by humane motives, and feelings of mercy. Harvey was guilty of the crime for which he was convicted, but he has a helpless wife and children depending upon him for support. They are in destitute circumstances and unable to obtain a livelihood through their own exertions. Mrs. Harvey, with her little ones, who are sick, called at the governor's residence to implore executive clemency on behalf of her husband, and, touched by the picture of sorrowing misery, he could not be blind to her appeals. It was a case that required justice to be strained with mercy, and the governor promised to grant the pardon.

The case of Orviller is somewhat different. Orviller is a typical specimen of an over-grown boy. He has the physique of a full-grown man, but is a mere boy in years, and his mind lacks maturity. As far as guilt is concerned, he is less guilty than Harvey, for he committed the offense through ignorance. He knows more about digging stumps than moral responsibility, and his experience in the county jail will, no doubt, teach him a salutary lesson that will not have to be repeated.

ANOTHER OUTLET.

Port Townsend, via San de Fuca, to the East.

Surveyors are actively at work opposite Port Townsend, on Whidby island. People in the vicinity are very deeply interested. It is believed that the proposition to connect Port Townsend with the East by means of a ferry to Whidby island, and rail via San de Fuca to the mainland will now be pushed. This belief is rapidly becoming a conviction as the result of the San de Fuca Townsite Company's offer to contract for the entire year's cut in ties and square timbers of a large mill to be located at that point.

NEWS FROM OVER THE WAY.

What the East Portland Reporter Gathered on His Daily Rounds.

How the Columbia Looks—The Baby Home—Arrived Safely—Annual School Meetings—Various Notes About Town.

The trip to the Columbia river, which is filled with ice and closed up, is quite interesting as a matter of pleasure, but not as a matter of business. This was the view entertained by persons who desired to reach Vancouver yesterday. A number went over on the cars in the forenoon to the river, in the hope the ferry would be able to transfer them over to Vancouver, but when the compact mass of ice, stretching from shore to shore, with only an occasional break in the pack, met their gaze, they gave up the idea of going over and returned to Portland.

About 12 o'clock the pack opened from shore to shore, making a clear field several hundred yards wide, but the ice seemed collected on the sand bar some distance down the river. It was a grand view. Up and down the river as far as the eye could reach was a moving mass of ice. Sometimes the great masses would come together like two contending forces, grinding and crushing each other.

AT THE BABY HOME.

The managers of the Baby Home state they can take no more infants at the Home under 1 year old, for the reason that they have no more room and no means of caring for them at present. This month has been one of the hardest the Home has experienced during the year. The financial agent, Mrs. Robb, has had sickness in her family and been unable to attend to the finances. Many who have babies boarding in the Home have this month been unable to pay the charges, which makes it hard on the management. All persons are invited to send to the Home their offerings in cash or clothing, as in the present quarters it is very hard to keep the little ones comfortable during this kind of weather. It can only be accomplished by keeping fires going day and night in the different rooms.

There are twenty infants in the Home. Will the benevolent and Christian public let these little ones suffer for the common necessities of life? Any one desiring to render assistance may do so by addressing Mrs. E. A. Harbin, the superintendent.

THE ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETINGS.

The annual school meeting in Holladay's addition, district No. 49, will be held next Monday. Professor Ackerman has conducted the Holladay school very successfully this year. One needs to be in his class-rooms but a short time to see the excellent character of the work done.

Monday night is the time for the regular meeting of the council, but it will doubtless adjourn to give the councilmen an opportunity of attending the annual school meeting, as has been done heretofore.

The attendance at the annual school meetings next Monday night promises to be very large, as every taxpayer is interested.

ARRIVED HOME SAFELY.

Mrs. Ora Schmeer returned to her home at Latourelle Falls Monday. She came down before the storm and was unable to return sooner. A letter was received from her yesterday announcing her safe arrival, but it was no easy matter to get up the mountain from the Columbia as the roads had been badly washed out.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES.

The Mount Tabor motor cars will run until 11:30 Saturday nights, and not every night.

About twenty cottages have been started in the southeastern portion of the city within the past ten days.

When last heard from County Surveyor Hurlburt was improving. His friends hope to see him fully restored to health at an early day.

Rev. David Wetzell has been preaching every night this week to large congregations in the Christian church, on Tenth and J streets.

Robert Byars assaulted John Schingel at his saloon, on First and L streets yesterday. Byars then came to the recorder's office, pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $5.

Few people thought, when Mr. Thomas Hislop built a hotel in Stephens addition, that it would pay, but it is already found too small and will likely have to be enlarged.

The revival meetings in progress at the Adams street M. E. church, conducted by J. H. Webber, are growing in interest and are well attended. A number have been converted.

Grading and other street work is in progress in various portions of Holladay's addition. When pleasant weather prevails work in this line will be in full blast all over the city.

A member of the council stated that petitions are being circulated to secure the improvement of Tenth and Eleventh streets. Whether anything will be accomplished remains to be seen.
